FIGHT ON THE TARIFF.

Wood Schedule Stubbornly Contested In the Senate.

POSTPONED ACTION ON SUGAR.

The Tobacco Rates Now Being Debated. Party Lines Broken on Several Votes. The House Has a Short Session and Then Adjourns.

WASHINGTON, June 8 .- The senate has disposed of the lumber paragraph, which has been more stubbornly contested than any feature of the bill thus far, by defeating the motion of Senator Vest, to place white pine on the free list-yeas, 20; nays, 38. The contest was mainly significant in breaking and after that sufficient time would be party lines which have been maintained with few exceptions during the early days of the debate. On the final vote eight Democratic senators voted against Mr. Vest's proposition, namely, Messrs. Bacon and Clay (Ga.), McEnery (La.), McLaurin and Tillman (S. 2.), Martin (Va.), Rawlins (Utah) and ate today. White. On the other hand Mr. Carter (Rep), and Messrs. Cannon and Mantle (Silver Reps.) voted for the Vest motion. Following this, a vote to substitute the Wilson lumber schedule, was defeated-yeas, 21; nays, 37-and the schedule was agreed to as reported. The debate preceding the vote was at times very strong, owing to the politi-A general discussion on the future program on the bill occurred before the senate adjourned. It led to a statement by Mr. Allison, in charge of the bill, that the committee probably would submit amendments to the sugar schedule. For this reason, he announced, Ark.), the senate resolution to permit that the sugar schedule would be passed over today, and the tobacco schedule taken up.

Mr. Caffery (La.) opposed the duty on white pine and incidentally criticized the position of Mr. Bacon (Ga.), who, he said, favored a protective duty. This the senator from Georgia denied.

Mr. Caffery announced his opposition to all the protective duties, but favored the imposition of duty for purely revenue purposes. He said the supply of pine in this country was inexhaustible, and repudiated the "reputed" representatives of lumber interests of his state who went before the ways and means committee and asked a duty of $2. He could not, he said, find a single basis for this duty on lumber, so far as the southern timber interests were concerned.

"My position," said Mr. Bacon, "is that if duties are to be levied on manufactured articles for revenue purposes they should be levied also on raw mate. rials-that no favors should be shown."

Senator Hoar improved the opportunity offered to humorously goad Senators Bacon and Caffery, by intimating that their revenue ideas became decidedly protective when home interests were effected-sugar for Louisiana and lumber for Georgia.

Mr. Caffery, with some display of temper, announced that there was not an iota of protection in his makeup.

"I favor a duty on sugar," said he emphatically, "because the duty goes into the treasury of the United States. You favor protection on articles which enables the manufacturers of those articles to put the equivalent of the duty in their own pockets."

Mr. Bacon and Mr. Caffery had a sharp exchange, and seemed about to subside when Senator Hoar again made some rather sarcastic reference to Mr. Caffery's inconsistency, describing him as a freetrader who cried always "sugar, sugar, sugar," and who when the Wilson bill was before the senate was so doubtful of what that bill would do for sugar that he voted "aye" on the sugar schedule and "no" on the final passage of the bill, and then changed to "yea." Mr. Bacon protested as being termed a freetrader. He favored a duty on all raw materials. "All raw materials that compete with the products of Georgia," remarked Mr. Hoar, amid laughter. "If we could commit the framing of a tariff bill to the freetrade senators who are conducting the debate on the other side, said he, "after its passage we would discover that every industry in their respective states had been amply protected. Mr. Bacon sought to turn the argument against Mr. Hoar by asking his position as to a duty on hides, but the Massachusetts senator, after explaining his ideas on this subject, neatly avoided committing himself by asserting that in such a bill as the present he would yield his individual convictions if he could not persuade his colleagues that he was right. After Mr. Caffery had made the statement that he had no apologies to make for his vote on the Wilson bill the debate became desultory. Mr. Allen (Neb.) touched briefly on the subject of duty on hides, and then inveigned against the lumber duties in the bill, which, he said, would be particularly oppressive to the people of Nebraska who were the victims of the lumber trust. He declared that 80 per cent of the lumber cut from Maine to Minnesota was cut by men of foreign birth.

and a great portion by men who are not citizens of the United States.

Mr. Vest's amendment to except white pine lumber from the $2 rate was lost, 20 to 39. Mr. Allison offered a new paragraph, which was agreed to, placing a duty on boxes for fruit at 30 per cent ad valorem; when such boxes are exported they may be reimported at one-half the rate. The lumber paragraph as a whole was then agreed to. Mr. Allen then moved to substitute the provisions of the Wilson bill for the entire lumber schedule. Rejected, 21-37. This disposed of the wood schedule. and again brought the senate up to the sugar schedule. Mr. White asked Mr. Allison as to the plans of the committee on going on with that schedule.

Mr. Allison responded that it was possible that some amendments might be made to the sugar schedule so that he thought it would be inexpedient to go on with it today. It was the purpose of the committee, however, to have that schedule considered as early as possible. If any changes were made they would be proposed in open senate, given gentlemen on the other side to consider them. The tobacco schedule would be considered.

In response to further inquiries Mr. Allison said that Mr. Aldrich hoped to be present during the consideration of the sugar schedule, and his health was such that he might be back in the sen-

In response to inquiry by Mr. Cannon Mr. Allison stated that the committee probably would return to the sugar schedule and dispose of it ahead of the other schedules, as senators desired to have it out of the way.

MINORITY OPPOSED ADJOURNMENT.

Will Continue to Do So Until Action on the Cuban Question.

Washington, June 8.-Mr. Bailey, the minority leader, was in his seat when the house met for the first time in a fortnight.

On motion of Mr. Dinsmore (Dem., Cabex Guttierrez of Salvador to be received as a cadet at West Point was adopted, and on motion of Mr. Morris (Minn.) the senate bill to amend the act to authorize the construction of a steel bridge across the St. Louis river was passed.

Mr. McMillen called attention to the fact that the last bill had not been considered by any committee of the present house (it had been passed by the last house). "We are working up the remnants of the last house," said he.

A senate bill to authorize the construction of a bridge across Pearl river, Mississippi, was passed. Mr. Grosvenor then moved an adjournment.

"As long as the Cuban resolution and the bankruptcy bill are undisposed of,' interposed Mr. Bailey before the vote was taken, "we feel constrained to resist these motions to adjourn.'

The opposition scored its first victory this session when, on a rising vote, the motion to adjourn was defeated-79 to 80. The opposition cheered the announcement. Mr. Grosvenor immediately demanded the yeas and nays, which were ordered. The roll call reversed the previous vote, and the motion to adjourn was carried-91 to 79; present and not voting 11.

Mr. Terry made the point of no quorum and the further point that the house could not adjourn for more than one day without a quorum. The speaker declined to hear him, calling attention to the fact that with those present and not voting a quorum was present. He then announced the house adjourned till Thursday.

In Dr. Brown's Favor.

CHICAGO, June 6.—The committee of the Congregational ministers appointed to consider the acceptance of the credentials of Dr. C. O. Brown, who lately received a call from the Green stree church, but whose call was proteste by a church in San Francisco, whic claimed that certain charges had caused him to be expelled from that congregation, has reported in favor of Dr. Brown.

Injured by a Falling Elevator.

CHICAGO, June 8.—An elevator in the building at 95 Dearborn street fell from second floor to the basement with three passengers and the elevator men, injur ing all of them. The fall of the elevator itself was attended by no serious consequences, but the iron weights, which balance the car, were released from their place and crashed down upon the roof of the elevator, crushing it in and injuring the occupants.

Insane From Brooding Over a Murder

St. Louis, June 8.- Michael Fortin, the man who hanged Walter H. Lennox Maxwell, the slayer of Arthur Preller, has been taken to the insane asylum, his mind having gone wrong from constant brooding over what was one of the most notable cases ever tried in St. Louis. Five Killed and Four Injured In a Collision.

Trains Come Together While Going at a High Rate of Speed-The Car Took Fire and the Bodies Were Burned-No Chance to Escape.

Hudson, Wis., June 8 .- Five men were instantly killed and four were badly injured by a collision on the Omaha railroad, near Hudson Junction. The trains were running at high speed and met at a sharp curve, affording the crew no possible escape.

The dead are: E. S. Hurd, laborer Joseph Leightheiser, laborer; Thomas Reilly, laborer; Milton Swain, laborer, all of Eau Claire, Wis.; Herman Reby,

The injured are: Brogan, engineer, head bruised and face injured; James Owns, conductor, slightly hurt; A. Seittleman, engineer pile driver, Menominee, Wis., legs badly bruised, internally injured, will probably die; Frank Thayer, Altoona, Wis., fireman, fatally injured internally.

The way freight, westbound, was running at the rate of 18 miles an hour when, upon turning a short curve on a down grade, it came upon a work train backing east at a speed of 35 miles an hour. The collision was something terrific. On the rear of the work train was the boaring car in which were four men belonging to the work crew. They were never aware of their danger and were undoubtedly instantly killed. The car took fire and three bodies were burned in the wreck. Both engines were totally wrecked.

The wreck was caused by the disobeyance of orders by Engineer James Owens of the work the conductor, who were given right of way to the westbound track. They forgot their orders and took the eastbound track and did not discover their error until too late. Owen is nearly crazed and a guard has been placed over him. The damage is estimated at $60,000.

THE FEELING SUBSIDING.

Sheriff McLain Back Home-The Mayor Issues a Card.

URBANA, O., June 8.—Sheriff McLain reached home on the Big Four road from Springfield. He was met at the depot.by Deputy Sheriff Kirby in a cab and was hurried off to his mother's home. Mayor Ganson has issued a card. In it he condemns mobs. He says that all was done by the sheriff to save Mitchell that could have been done, and if more force had been used men, women and children would have been killed.

While Captain Leonard was in Cincinnati he said: "My business is ruined and my family broken up. I do not think I shall ever go back to Urbana. I dream of terrible occurrences and awake with a start at night with the din of that howling mob in my ears. I hear that the father of Bell, who was killed, has threatened to shoot me on sight. I am going to leave the city, but my whereabouts will be kept secret."

The feeling here has subsided very much. A strong reaction has set in, and the best public opinion favors protection to the fullest for Captain Leonard and his company.

Governor Bushnell has began an official investigation of the military phase of the Urbana affair, Adjutant General Axline assisting him. The governor heard the statements of Colonel Anthony of the Third regiment, Captain George N. Leonard and Lieutenants R. C. Campbell and W. C. Gifford of the Urbana company. The fact that Sheriff McLain telegraphed for troops is not denied, but the previous misinformation regarding the situation telephoned to the governor misled him in judging of the necessities of the occasion demanded when the formal call for troops was made. The governor will investigate the matter thoroughly. The governor has received assurance that it will be perfectly safe for the officers of the Urbana company to return home, and they will go to Urbana in a couple

Decided In Favor of Three Friends.

Amendments to the Tariff.

Washington, June 8 .- Senator Quay gave notice of several amendments he proposes offering to the tariff bill. One of these provides for striking out the provision for a duty on tea and another for striking out the increase of the beer tax. The free admission of iron ore imported from mines owned abroad by citizens of the United States for their own use is also provided for. Another amendment imposes a duty of 10 per cent on all articles on the free list until 1901, and a fourth strikes out sections 4, 5, 6 and 7. The effect of the adoption of the last amendment would be to Special leave the present internal revenue law in effect.

OIL WORKS SHUTDOWN.

THE CONDUCTOR FORGOT ORDERS. The Standard Company at Clevelard MUCH OF IT IS DEPOPULATED. Closes For an Indefinite Period.

CLEVELAND, June 8 .- The entire plant of the Standard Oil works in this city has shut down for an indefinite period.

The foremen told the men that there would be no work for weeks and may be a much longer time. The men believe that during that time another section of the plant will be abandoned, carrying out the Standard's policy of making in this city only enough oil and other products to supply the home demand.

Close to 1,000 men are thrown out of work by the shutdown. It is said that the Standard has an immense stock on hand in the Kingsbury run warehouses, enough, in fact, to supply all the demand in this district until Jan. 1, 1898, or longer.

Bone, respectively acting secretary and manager and assistant secretary of the company, for selling or giving to a rival company plans and tracing of inventions owned by the company.

He May Succeed Lee.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Congressman Frank Aldrich of Chicago is in the city. His purpose of visiting Washington at this time is to consult with Special Commissioner Calhoun respecting affairs in the island of Cuba. While Mr. Aldrich declines to commit himself in any way, it is confidently believed by his friends that he has been selected by Presidently McKinley for the office of consul general to Cuba, and that he will relieve General Lee before long.

Shot by Her Former Employer.

Washington, June 8.—Charles Barber, a patent attorney, shot his former stenographer, Miss Dorothy Squires, and, thinking he had killed her, turned the revolver on himself and blew his brains out. Miss Squires will recover. She formerly worked for him.

Cal-Commissioner houn's Opinion.

He Acted Only as Counsel In the Ruis Case-Will Tell President McKinley His Views on the War if Called on to Do So-Lee Will Make the Report.

NEW YORK, June 8 .- William J. Calhoun, who was sent to Cuba as a special commissioner to investigate the circumstances of the death in prison of Dr. Ruiz, an American citizen, has reached this city on his return. He was accompanied by George W. Fishback, his private secretary, and Charles M. Pepper, a Washington newspaper correspondent who went to Cuba with the commissioner. Ramon O. Williams, formerly United States consul general to Cuba, came on the same steamer. Mr. Calhoun said that the commission held three sittings between May 20 and June 1, at Havana, Regulus and Guanabacoa. The papers examined in the case were chiefly military records. The final report will be made to Washington by Ceneral Lee. Mr. Calhoun declined to give his opinion on the case.

In a conversation he said: "The island of Cuba is rapidly being devastated by a relentless, cruel and bitter civil war, so that in a short time it will not be worth anything to anyone. It is difficult to get at the exact situation there. In the first place there is a severe censorship of the press, and these who are naturally friendly to the Cubans hardly dare to express their views and opinions. Believed to Have Been Crazed Through Hypnotism.

St. Louis, June 8.—As a sequel to a terrible struggle in a little room at 805 Allen avenue, Joseph Feiferlick will probably die and a charge of murder will lie against George, his 27-year-old brother. From stories told by relatives of the dying man and to the imprisoned brother it would seem that another is responsible for the crime. It is one more case into which enters that mysterious power termed hypnotism. The Feiferlick family is one of the oldest in St. Louis. While in San Francisco one year ago George was nypnotized at an entertainment. Since then he has acted strangely, and his crazed attack upon Joseph is attributed to this influence.

Sheriff McLain Back Home-The Mayor Issues a Card.

reached home on the Big Four road of $4.50, agreed on at the Detroit confrom Springfield. He was met at the vention. The mill owners say they depot by Deputy Sheriff Kirby in a cab should not pay more than $4. and was hurried off to his mother's home. Mayor Ganson has issued a card. In it he condemns mobs. He says that all was done by the sheriff to save Mitchell that could have been done, and if more force had been used men, women and children would have been killed.

While Captain Leonard was in Cincinnati he said: "My business is ruined and my family broken up. I do not think I shall ever go back to Urbana. I dream of terrible occurrences and awake with a start at night with the din of that howling mob in my ears. I hear that the father of Bell. who was killed, has threatened to shoot me on sight. I am going to leave the city, but my whereabouts will be kept secret."

The feeling here has subsided very much. A strong reaction has set in, and the best public opinion favors protection to the fullest for Captain Leonard and his company.

Governor Bushnell has began an official investigation of the military phase of the Urbana affair, Adjutant General Axline assisting him. The governor heard the statements of Colonel Anthony of the Third regiment, Captain George N. Leonard and Lieutenants R. C. Campbell and W. C. Gifford of the Urbana company. The fact that Sheriff McLain telegraphed for troops is not denied, but the previous misinformation regarding the situation telephoned to the governor misled him in judging of the necessities of the occasion demanded when the formal call for troops was made. The governor will investigate the matter thoroughly. The governor has received assurance that it will be perfectly safe for the officers of the Urbana company to return home, and they will go to Urbana in a couple of days.

Dec ded In Favor of Three Friends.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 8 .- In the United States court Judge Locke handed down a decision in the case of the steamer Three Friends, charged with violating the neutrality laws, by carrying a filibustering expedition to Cuba, and also as an armed vessel, dismissing the libel for forfeiture. In giving the decision Judge Locke said: "The evidence in the case does not show that the vessel done anything that is in violation of the neutrality laws of this country." Three other cases are pending against the vessel, but they are likely to be dismissed, as the evidence is much the same as in present case.

Amendments to the Tariff.

The men believe that during that time another section of the plant will be abandoned, carrying out the Standard's policy of making in this city only enough oil and other products to supply the home demand.

Close to 1,000 men are thrown out of work by the shutdown. It is said that the Standard has an immense stock on hand in the Kingsbury run warehouses, enough, in fact, to supply all the demand in this district until Jan. 1, 1898,

He Acted Only as Counsel In the Ruis Case-Will Tell President McKinley His Views on the War if Called on to Do So-Lee Will Make the Report.

NEW YORK, June 8.-William J. Calhoun, who was sent to Cuba as a special commissioner to investigate the circumstances of the death in prison of Dr. Ruiz, an American citizen, has reached this city on his return. He was accompanied by George W. Fishback, his private secretary, and Charles M. Pepper, a Washington newspaper correspondent who went to Cuba with the commissioner. Ramon O. Williams, formerly United States consul general to Cuba, came on the same steamer. Mr. Calhoun said that the commission held three sittings between May 20 and June 1, at Havana, Regulus and Guanabacoa. The papers examined in the case were chiefly military records. The final report will be made to Washington by Ceneral Lee. Mr. Calhoun declined to give his opinion on the case.

In a conversation he said: "The island of Cuba is rapidly being devastated by a relentless, cruel and bitter civil war, so that in a short time it will not be worth anything to anyone. It is difficult to get at the exact situation there. In the first place there is a severe censorship of the press, and these who are naturally friendly to the Cubans hardly dare to express their views and opinions. Furtnermore, the adherents of both sides are exceedingly intense, They tell their stories just as they want you to believe them. From the Spanish point of view the island is practically pacified, and from that of the Cubans the insurgents never were

ATTACKED HIS BROTHER.

Believed to Have Been Crazed Through Hypnotism.

St. Louis, June 8. - As a sequel to a terrible struggle in a little room at 805 Allen avenue, Joseph Feiferlick will probably die and a charge of murder will lie against George, his 27-year-old brother.

From stories told by relatives of the dying man and to the imprisoned brother it would seem that another is responsible for the crime. It is one more case into which enters that mysterious power termed hypnotism. The Feiferlick family is one of the oldest in St. Louis. While in San Francisco one year ago George was hypnotized at an entertainment. Since then he has acted strangely, and his crazed attack upon Joseph is attributed to this influence.

The stuff is little more than the leaves of herbs, mixed with sufficient tea dust to give it a flavor, and a great deal of it has been sold here within the past few months. Reputable dealers will not handle it at all, but a vast quantity has been disposed of by agents. They can buy the stuff from wholesalers at eight and 10 cents a pound, and it is sold at 50 with liberal premiums. It is refuse which cannot be sold in the cities, and since the trade began large quantities of it have been sold in the valley. Wellsville, Toronto and Steubenville have suffered equally as bad. It is now proposed by a number of dealers to place the matter in the hands of the state official, and he will be asked to come here and investigate. It is not known how many agents are handling the stuff, but they are not believed to be local men. A number have signified their willingness to be investigated by the department in the hope that the real responsibility can be placed where it belongs.

IN SPLENDID CONDITION.

The Annual Meeting of Riverview Cemetery Association.

The annual meeting of Riverview Cemetery association was held last night at city hall with Hon. David Boyce in the chair. M. E. Golding and George W. Meredith were elected from the lot owners to fill the vacancies caused by the death of James H. Goodwin and Col. W. H. Vodrey, and J. C. Thompson and J. H. Simms were chosen to take their places on the board of trustees. Mr. Boyce was re-elected president, J. M. Kelly secretary and N. G. Macrum treasurer. Mr. Boyce, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Laughlin, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Hall were chosen the executive committee.

Mr. Kelly's report showed that 60 lots had been sold during the year. The number of interments from other cemeteries was 44, and of deaths 109. Total number of deaths to date 1,161. When compared with last year an increase is seen. The total was 73, deaths 55 and removals 18.

The finances of the association are in good condition. Assets June 1-Cash, $1,477.41; 40 shares Potters' Building and Loan stock, $4,000; bills receivable for lots sold, $3,783.57; book accounts, $1,078.90; total, $10,339.88. Total last year, $7,310.17; net gain, $3,029.71.

The meeting was largely attended, and several matters of minor importance were discussed, among them being the grading of the hill above the lodge. The association is made up of 60 members, and when death or permanent removal from the city creates a vacancy it is filled by an election from among the lot owners.

MUCH TO BE DONE.

Council Will Have Its Hands Full Tonight.

The regular meeting of council will be held this evening, and it promises to be a lengthy session. A report of the finance committee in regard to the proposed improvements will be submitted, and it will probably cause some discussion. The city engineer ordinance will be up for its third reading, and a report on it will be handed in by the ordinance committee. It is probable an ordinance will be introduced making it an offense for minors or habituals to enter a saloon, and the pay roll will be passed. In addition to this the usual routine business will be transacted, and this is also the night for monthly reports.

OLD TIME DOCTORS.

The Students Helped Their Teachers In

During the last century in America The Pure Food Laws Will Be the medical education of a young student was generally what he picked up by serving as an apprentice to some noted practitioner, which combined the duties of a student with many menial

He ground the powders, mixed the pills, rode with the doctor on his rounds, held the basin when the patient was bled, helped to adjust the plasters, sew the wounds and run with vials of medicine from one end of town to the other. It was a white day when such a young man enjoyed the rare good fortune of dissecting a half putrid arm. So great indeed was the difficulty of obtaining anatomical subjects that the medical school of Harvard college made a single body do duty for a whole year.

Under such circumstances the doctor's knowledge was practical, and derived from personal experience rather than from books. The advantages of study were sparingly enjoyed. Few physicians boasted of a library of 50 volumes.

His apprenticeship ended, the student returned to his native town to assume the practice of medicine. At that period, with the exception of the minister and the judge, the doctor was the most important personage in his community. His genial face, his engaging manners, the sincerity with which he inquired after the carpenter's daughter and the interest which he took in the family of the poorest laborer made him the favorite for miles around. He knew the names and personal history of the occupants of every house he passed. The farmer's lads pulled off their hats to him and the girls dropped courtesies as he passed. Sunshine and rain, daylight and darkness, were alike to him. He would ride ten miles in the darkest night over the worst of roads in a pelting storm to administer a dose of calomel to an old woman or attend a child

The drugs were stowed away on the shelves of the village store, among heaps of shoes, Rohan hats, packages of seeds and flitches of bacon.

The physician was compelled to compound his own drugs, make his own tinctures and put up his own prescriptions. His saddlebag was the only drug store within 40 miles. Each spring the blood must be purified, the kidneys excited and the damsel who fainted profusely bled. Large doses of senna and manna and rhubarb and molasses were taken daily. It was safe to say that more medicine was taken every year by the well than is now taken by the sick in the same time.

KITCHEN RUN BY CITY.

At Grenoble, France, an Association Serves Good Food at Cost.

Housewives who think the co-operative kitchen is so far in the future that it would be absurd to look forward to it for relief from daily drudgery will be interested to hear that a kitchen with the same end in view as the co-operative has been in successful operation for nearly 50 years. The Association Alimentaire of Grenoble, France, is a purely municipal affair. The city owns it and supplies meals at cost in its own restaurant or delivers them at private

Everything at the Association Alimentaire is as good as money can buy. The cooks are as clever as any in France, which is saying a great deal. The provisions are bought in the best markets and are carefully selected. The service is excellent. The dining rooms are of several grades, according to the furnishings and the attendance, so that all tastes may be accommodated. One may dine there for 3 cents on bread and soup and be satisfied or one may pay 12 cents and have a full course dinner. In the best rooms, which are marble floored and decorated with much elegance, there are waiters who look for tips as naturally as though they were in the swellest of Parisian cafes.

Pure wines, which have been properly aged, are served at about 8 cents a

There is no financial profit to the city in running this huge restaurant, which serves some 15,000 meals a day. The charges are based on the cost of the materials used, the employment of help and the amount spent in keeping the utensils, machinery and building in repair. - New York Press.

A BEGGAR'S ARTIST.

LIVES IN A CELLAR AND PAINTS SIGNS "OR MENDICANTS.

He Makes a Good Living and Would Rather Be a Painter For Beggars Than a Beggar Painter-How the Pictures Are Used and What He Charges For Them.

A new school of art has been discovered. So far as known, this city has its sole professor, and he is as odd as his art. But this is the source whence come the thrilling pictures which the beggar, maimed, halt or blind, displays when he mournfully relates just how he was injured and strives to impress upon the charitable how deserving he is of aid.

In one of the shabbiest streets of the city, away down in a basement, a flickering gas flame lights the studio of this queer genius. It is a place of business such as would appall the well dressed banker, but it is no exaggeration to say that its occupant has an income which many more pretentious painters would rejoice to receive.

Technique and perspective meet with small consideration at the hands of this king of the beggars, for such he seems to be. To watch ingress and egress of his patrons would give a stranger the impression that some philanthropist had established a charity hospital in the basement. When the writer paid a visit to this unique studio the other day, the artist was found attired in a pair of overalls and a greasy woolen shirt, as guiltless of ornamentation at the neck as was the neck itself of acquaintance with soap and water. A bushy beard that had evidently been brown in other days covered the lower portion of the artist's face, and his shocky hair stood up in indignant protest against the possibility of invasion by brush or comb. From under rather bushy brows a keen pair of eyes looked out. Mind was decidedly in evidence; conventionality was below par. Both cleanliness and godliness were quite ignored.

The furniture of the studio consisted of an old couch covered with a material which in days gone by had probably been very pretty chintz. Now it was thoroughly disguised by the accumulation of dirt. A real rag carpet covered the floor, but not a single picture s hung upon the walls, although standing about the room were several pictures in various stages of progress. Permission was asked to examine them, and they were well worth seeing.

One was a lurid representation of a powder explosion. So realistic was the ing grains of powder you could feel that the grains were there, though the artist denied that that was the intention. He said the painting was intended for a patron of his with two wooden legs, substitutes for the pair that a powder explosion robbed him of. The object of the painting was to show the charitable stranger just how it happened, and the artist said that in his mind there was no doubt that his legless patron would greatly benefit by the scene thus placed

There was another picture, which represented the blowing up of a man-of-war. The flames that spouted from the decks of the unfortunate vessel were far more red than the light that shines from the chimneys of an iron mill at night. Nature has never succeeded in producing anything quite so glowing as unmitigated red paint, and there was no lack of it in this picture. The persons who were sailing about in the air seemed to have suffered frightful injuries, and the artist said that this was purely to invoke sympathy for his customer, who was supposed to be one of the actors in the scene so graphically portrayed. The price of such paintings varies from $3 to $12. The artist can complete one in about 1 1-2 hours, if he does not hurry. If it is a rush order, the work can be concluded within an hour, though in that case the price is increased somewhat. When asked if he made much money by this sort of work, the artist replied that he did; that he gained more than many painters who were striving to do great things are able to secure. His patrons were generally prompt pay-indeed the usual terms are cash on delivery. As for embarking in higher art, the artist would have none of it. He tersely remarked that he would rather be a painter for beggars than a beggar painter, and as he waved a goodby there was a contented look on his face, which showed that he meant exactly what he said.—Philadelphia Press

SCHUBERT'S SAD LIFE.

"I Shall Have to Speak From Door to Door to Beg My Bread."

One of the bitterest disappointments in Schubert's life was Goethe's indinerence. In 1818 he sent a selection of his compositions to the poet's songs to Weimar. What precious pearls of music were among the collection—the songs of "Mignen" and "The Harpist," those from "Faust," the sad melodies "Longing," "Nightsong," "The Wanderer's Nightsong," "The Earl King," "Haideroslein," "The Fisherman," "The Bard," "The King of Thule" and the music to "Claudine of Villa Bella." Goethe, who had an ear only for the stiff compositions of Zumsteeg and Reinhart, then in fashion in Weimar, took no notice of Schubert's music and left his letter unanswered. Not until 1830to appreciate the extraordinary value of the compositions that lay neglected in his drawer. It was then that Wilhelmine Schroder Devrient sang "The Earl King" to him. It was Schubert's greatest delight to make some little excursion with his friends to the picturesquely situated villages in the Wilnerwald or on the Kahlenberg, and it was in the arbors of the small inns, with a glass of pure country wine before him, that inspiration came most easily. But even these modest delights were imbittered by the malice that pictured him as a drunkard who composed his songs when he was full of wine. It is an absolute fact that he did not lose the faculty of artistic work even under the saddest circumstances. He composed the greater part of the "Miller Songs" while he was lying ill in hospital in 1823. He was quite right when he wrote to his friend Kuppel- Makes a Public Statement for the wieser in March, 1824, "Those of my compositions which have been inspired by pain seem to please people best." And in a letter to Bauernfeld he complained: "What will become of poor me? Like Goethe's harp player, I shall have to sneak from door to door and beg my bread." The only ray of light that fell into his dark life was when, through the kindness of Count Johann Esterhazy's manager, Unger, the father of the famous prima donna, Unger-Sabatier, he was appointed music master in the count's household in Zelecs, where he spent some happy summers, the happiest of his life. It was in Castle Zelecs picture that if you cared to place your that he is supposed to have fallen in to him that I had suffered for a number ager on what were alleged to be burn- love with Caroline, his patron's beauti- of years from my kidneys, that I would ful daughter, who was his pupil, and have attacks at times when nothing who probably never learned the secret would help me and it was agony for me of the musician's heart, though it is strange that one so gifted and so beautiful should not have married before she was well into the thirties. EVE ETERNALLY CONFUSED.

An Ohio Picture of Human Nature With Worldwide Point.

As a Cedar motor and trailer approached Wilson avenue recently a woman was noticed dodging about the middle of the street. She was evidently hesitating as to which way to go, but finally crossed to the south track and stood there.

"Cross over to the other side!" roared a group of men on the corner.

'Look out for the car!" screamed a woman on the sidewalk. The motorman clanged his bell and shouted, and the woman dodged out of harm's way. Then, as the train slowed down, she trotted alongside of the trail-

In answer to the appeal the woman suddenly appeared around the rear of the trailer and put one foot on the step. Then she changed her mind and trotted to the front end of the car. Here she climbed up and came in the front door. The conductor snapped the bell, and the train started suddenly, tumbling the newcomer on to a fat man. As she straightened up she said:

"This car is going to Fairmount street, isn't it?"

"No, ma'am," replied the conductor. "it's going right the other way."

"There, I just thought it was!" cried the woman. "But you all yelled at me so that I got confused. I don't want to go on this car. Let me off." So the conductor let her off at the next stopping place, and the last the passengers saw of her she was standing on the wrong side of the street waiting for an eastward bound car. - Cleveland Plain Dealer.

I replied that I was the sicker of the two, as I could at the time scarcely straighten up with my back from lameness, weakness and severe pains. He asked me what my symptoms were and I explained to get around, but that I could not endure idleness. The secretions from the kidneys were very high colored and aciduous, that I had spells of dizziness, when I would see black specks floating before my eyes, and felt generall broken up. NO MORE DUST FOR TEA

The Pure Food Laws Will Be Enforced.

AGENTS HAVE BEEN AT WORK

Deceiving a Great Many Customers In the City-Complaint Will Be Made to the Commissioner, and He Will Be Asked to Investigate at Once.

It is probable that the pure food commissioner will in the very near future visit this city in the hope of putting an end to the sale of cheap, adulterated

The stuff is little more than the leaves of herbs, mixed with sufficient tea dust to give it a flavor, and a great deal of it has been sold here within the past few months. Reputable dealers will not handle it at all, but a vast quantity has been disposed of by agents. They can buy the stuff from wholesalers at eight and 10 cents a pound, and it is sold at 50 with liberal premiums. It is refuse which cannot be sold in the cities, and since the trade began large quantities of it have been sold in the valley. Wellsville, Toronto and Steubenville have suffered equally as bad. It is now proposed by a number of dealers to place the matter in the hands of the state official, and he will be asked to come here and investigate. It is not known how many agents are handling the stuff, but they are not believed to be local men. A number have signified their willingness to be investigated by the department in the hope that the real responsibility can be placed where it belongs.

IN SPLENDID CONDITION.

The Annual Meeting of Riverview Cemetery Association.

The annual meeting of Riverview Cemetery association was held last night at city hall with Hon. David Boyce in the chair. M. E. Golding and George W. Meredith were elected from the lot owners to fill the vacancies caused by the death of James H. Goodwin and Col. W. H. Vodrey, and J. C. Thompson and J. H. Simms were chosen to take their places on the board of trustees. Mr. Boyce was re-elected president, J. M. Kelly secretary and N. G. Macrum treasurer. Mr. Boyce, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Laughlin, Mr. Thompson committee.

Mr. Kelly's report showed that 60 lots had been sold during the year. The number of interments from other cemeteries was 44, and of deaths 109. Total number of deaths to date 1,161. When compared with last year an increase is seen. The total was 73, deaths 55 and removals 18.

The finances of the association are in good condition. Assets June 1-Cash, $1,477.41; 40 shares Potters' Building and Loan stock, $4,000; bills receivable for lots sold, $3,783.57; book accounts, $1,078.90; total, $10,339.88. Total last year, $7,310.17; net gain, $3,029.71.

The meeting was largely attended, and several matters of minor importance were discussed, among them being the grading of the hill above the lodge. The association is made up of 60 members, and when death or permanent removal from the city creates a vacancy it is filled by an election from among the lot owners.

MUCH TO BE DONE.

Council Will Have Its Hands Full To-

The regular meeting of council will be held this evening, and it promises to be a lengthy session. A report of the finance committee in regard to the proposed improvements will be submitted, and it will probably cause some discussion. The city engineer ordinance will be up for its third reading, and a report on it will be handed in by the ordinance committee. It is probable an ordinance will be introduced making it an offense for minors or habituals to enter a saloon, and the pay roll will be passed. In addition to this the usual routine business will be transacted, and this is also the liter. night for monthly reports.

OLD TIME DOCTORS.

The Students Helped Their Teachers In Practical Work.

During the last century in America the medical education of a young student was generally what he picked up by serving as an apprentice to some noted practitioner, which combined the duties of a student with many menial

He ground the powders, mixed the pills, rode with the doctor on his rounds, held the basin when the patient was bled, helped to adjust the plasters, sew the wounds and run with vials of medicine from one end of town to the other. It was a white day when such a young man enjoyed the rare good fortune of dissecting a half putrid arm. So great indeed was the difficulty of obtaining anatomical subjects that the medical school of Harvard college made a single body do duty for a whole year.

Under such circumstances the doctor's knowledge was practical, and derived from personal experience rather than from books. The advantages of study were sparingly enjoyed. Few physicians boasted of a library of 50

His apprenticeship ended, the student returned to his native town to assume the practice of medicine. At that period, with the exception of the minister and the judge, the doctor was the most important personage in his community. His genial face, his engaging manners, the sincerity with which he inquired after the carpenter's daughter and the interest which he took in the family of the poorest laborer made him the favorite for miles around. He knew the names and personal history of the occupants of every house he passed. The farmer's lads pulled off their hats to him and the girls dropped courtesies as he passed. Sunshine and rain, daylight and darkness, were alike to him. He would ride ten miles in the darkest night over the worst of roads in a pelting storm to administer a dose of calomel to an old woman or attend a child in a fit.

The drugs were stowed away on the shelves of the village store, among heaps of shoes, Rohan hats, packages of seeds and flitches of bacon.

The physician was compelled to compound his own drugs, make his own tinctures and put up his own prescriptions. His saddlebag was the only drug store within 40 miles. Each spring the blood must be purified, the kidneys excited and the damsel who fainted profusely bled. Large doses of senna and manna and rhubarb and molasses were taken daily. It was safe to say that more medicine was taken every year by the well than is now taken by the sick in the same time.

The writer has a vivid recollection, when about 8 years old, in a raging fever, pleading for water. The nurse handed the pitcher, and the child satisfied her burning thirst. KITCHEN RUN BY CITY.

At Grenoble, France, an Association Serves Good Food at Cost.

Housewives who think the co-operative kitchen is so far in the future that it would be absurd to look forward to it for relief from daily drudgery will be interested to hear that a kitchen with have suffered frightful injuries, and the the same end in view as the co-operative has been in successful operation for nearly 50 years. The Association Alimentaire of Grenoble, France, is a purely municipal affair. The city owns it and supplies meals at cost in its own restaurant or delivers them at private one in about 1 1-2 hours, if he does not

Everything at the Association Alimentaire is as good as money can buy. The cooks are as clever as any in France, which is saying a great deal. The provisions are bought in the best markets artist replied that he did; that he gained and are carefully selected. The service is excellent. The dining rooms are of several grades, according to the furnishings and the attendance, so that all tastes may be accommodated. One may dine there for 3 cents on bread and soup and be satisfied or one may pay 12 cents and have a full course dinner. In the best rooms, which are marble floored and decorated with much elegance, there are waiters who look for tips as naturally as though they were in the swellest of Parisian cafes.

Pure wines, which have been properly aged, are served at about 8 cents a

There is no financial profit to the city in running this huge restaurant, which serves some 15,000 meals a day. The charges are based on the cost of the materials used, the employment of help and the amount spent in keeping the utensils, machinery and building in repair. - New York Press.

A BEGGAR'S ARTIST.

LIVES IN A CELLAR AND PAINTS SIGNS FOR MENDICANTS.

He Makes a Good Living and Would Rather Painter-How the Pictures Are Used and "I Shall Have to Speak From Door to Be a Painter For Beggars Than a Beggar What He Charges For Them.

A new school of art has been discovered. So far as known, this city has its sole professor, and he is as odd as his art. But this is the source whence come the thrilling pictures which the beggar, maimed, halt or blind, displays when he mournfully relates just how he was injured and strives to impress upon the charitable how deserving he is of aid.

In one of the shabbiest streets of the city, away down in a basement, a flickering gas flame lights the studio of this queer genius. It is a place of business such as would appall the well dressed banker, but it is no exaggeration to say that its occupant has an income which many more pretentious painters would rejoice to receive.

Technique and perspective meet with small consideration at the hands of this king of the beggars, for such he seems to be. To watch ingress and egress of his patrons would give a stranger the impression that some philanthropist had established a charity hospital in the basement.

When the writer paid a visit to this unique studio the other day, the artist was found attired in a pair of overalls and a greasy woolen shirt, as guiltless of ornamentation at the neck as was the neck itself of acquaintance with soap and water. A bushy beard that had evidently been brown in other days covered the lower portion of the artist's face, and his shocky hair stood up in indignant protest against the possibility of invasion by brush or comb. From under rather bushy brows a keen pair of eyes looked out. Mind was decidedly in evidence; conventionality was below par. Both cleanliness and godliness were quite ignored.

The furniture of the studio consisted of an old couch covered with a material which in days gone by had probably been very pretty chintz. Now it was thoroughly disguised by the accumulation of dirt. A real rag carpet covered the floor, but not a single picture was hung upon the walls, although standing about the room were several pictures in various stages of progress. Permission was asked to examine them, and they were well worth seeing.

One was a lurid representation of a powder explosion. So realistic was the picture that if you cared to place your finger on what were alleged to be burning grains of powder you could feel that patron of his with two wooden legs, substitutes for the pair that a powder explosion robbed him of. The object of the painting was to show the charitable stranger just how it happened, and the artist said that in his mind there was no doubt that his legless patron would greatly benefit by the scene thus placed An Ohio Picture of Human Nature With on canvas.

There was another picture, which represented the blowing up of a man-of-war. The flames that spouted from the decks of the unfortunate vessel were far more red than the light that shines from the chimneys of an iron mill at night. Nature has never succeeded in producing anything quite so glowing as unmitigated red paint, and there was no lack of it in this picture. The persons who were sailing about in the air seemed to artist said that this was purely to invoke sympathy for his customer, who was supposed to be one of the actors in the scene so graphically portrayed.

The price of such paintings varies from $3 to $12. The artist can complete hurry. If it is a rush order, the work can be concluded within an hour, though in that case the price is increased somewhat. When asked if he made much money by this sort of work, the striving to do great things are able to straightened up she said: secure. His patrons were generally prompt pay-indeed the usual terms are cash on delivery.

As for embarking in higher art, the artist would have none of it. He tersely remarked that he would rather be a painter for beggars than a beggar painter, and as he waved a goodby there was a contented look on his face, which showed that he meant exactly what he said.—Philadelphia Press.

SCHUBERT'S SAD LIFE.

One of the bitterest disappointments in Schubert's life was Geethe's inditter ence. In 1818 he sent a selection of his compositions to the pact's songs to Weimar. What precious pearls of music were among the collection—the songs of "Mignen" and "The Harpist," those from "Faust," the sad melodies "Long-"Nightsong," "The Wanderer's Nightsong," "The Earl King," "Haideroslein," "The Fisherman," "The Bard," "The King of Thule" and the music to "Claudine of Villa Bella. Goethe, who had an ear only for the stiff compositions of Zumsteeg and Reinhart, then in fashion in Weimar, took no notice of Schubert's music and left his letter unanswered. Not until 1830 after Schubert's death—did Goethe learn to appreciate the extraordinary value of the compositions that lay neglected in his drawer. It was then that Wilhelmine Schroder Devrient sang "The Earl King" to him. It was Schubert's greatest delight to make some little excursion with his friends to the picturesquely situated villages in the Wilnerwald or on the Kahlenberg, and it was in the arbors of the small inns, with a glass of pure country wine before him, that inspiration came most easily. But even these modest delights were imbittered by the malice that pictured him as a drunkard who composed his songs when he was full of wine. It is an absolute fact that he did not lose the faculty of artistic work even under the saddest circumstances. He composed the greater part of the "Miller Songs" while he was lying ill in hospital in 1823. He was quite right when he wrote to his friend Kuppelwieser in March, 1824, "Those of my compositions which have been inspired by pain seem to please people best." And in a letter to Bauernfeld he complained: "What will become of poor me? Like Goethe's harp player, I shall have to sneak from door to door and beg my bread." The only ray of light that fell into his dark life was when, through the kindness of Count Johann Esterhazy's manager, Unger, the father of the famous prima donna, Unger-Sabatier, he was appointed music master in the count's household in Zelecs, where he spent some happy summers, the happiest of his life. It was in Castle Zelecs that he is supposed to have fallen in love with Caroline, his patron's beautithe grains were there, though the artist who probably never learned the secret said the painting was intended for a strange that one so gifted and so beautiful should not have married before she was well into the thirties. Bitter disappointment followed this short spell of a life free of care. - London Telegraph.

EVE ETERNALLY CONFUSED.

Worldwide Point.

As a Cedar motor and trailer approached Wilson avenue recently a woman was noticed dodging about the middle of the street. She was evidently hesitating as to which way to go, but finally crossed to the south track and stood there.

'Cross over to the other side!" roared a group of men on the corner.

'Look out for the car!" screamed a woman on the sidewalk.

The motorman clanged his bell and shouted, and the woman dodged out of harm's way. Then, as the train slowed down, she trotted alongside of the trail-

In answer to the appeal the woman suddenly appeared around the rear of the trailer and put one foot on the step. Then she changed her mind and trotted to the front end of the car. Here she climbed up and came in the front door. The conductor snapped the bell, and the train started suddenly, tumbling the more than many painters who were newcomer on to a fat man. As she

> "No, ma'am," replied the conductor, "it's going right the other way."

"There, I just thought it was!" cried the woman. "But you all yelled at me so that I got confused. I don't want to go on this car. Let me off."

So the conductor let her off at the next stopping place, and the last the passengers saw of her she was standing on the wrong side of the street waiting for an eastward bound car. - Cleveland

POLICE QUESTION CONSIDERED

Abundant and Interesting Discussion, With Motion After Motion Lost-Poor Director Appointed-What Council Did. All the News.

Council opened last night with a discussion as to whether Mayor Jones or the acting mayor should report the collection of $44.30, and it was decided to take the latter. The water works reported a balance of $1,835,88. Paving assessments were given to the solicitor for collection.

A petition asking that culverts from Fifteenth street to the river be cleaned. precipitated a long discussion. Mr. Johnson believed the run should be drained and the people who fill it with filth punished. The matter went to a committee with power to act. An ordinance providing for the extermination of stray dogs, unless claimed by their owners within three days, was passed. '

The police ordinance as discussed provided for officers at $45 a month, and was amended by Mr. Minor so that the marshal became the chief. Mr. Goetz thought the marshal already had two other places, and Mr. Armstrong believed that if the mayor was made chief he should have a salary of $50 a month. An effort to suspend the rules was lost, as was a motion that the matter be deferred for a month while council talked it over with Marshal Warren. Finally Mr. Beacom's motion that the ordinance be placed on its first reading,

Peanuts grow in large quantities on the northwest coast of Africa, but are known there as ground nuts. They are dug up by the natives and bartered with the European traders for merchandise, tobacco, etc., at many places on the Gambia river and afterward shipped in steamer loads to European ports, principally to Marseilles. HURT BY AN ELEVATOR

It Drops to the Bottom, Injuring the

NEW YORK, June 8.—By the falling of a freight elevator in the Mail street side of the postoffice six men were more or less seriously hurt. Four were postal employes and the other two men were engaged by the contractor who has charge of the alterations now going on in the federal building. The injured are: James A. Cox, 70 years old, examiner in the sea service of the postoffice department, Middletown, N. Y., internal injuries; George W. Daley, railway mail service clerk, Easton, Pa., leg broken; Frank Birdsall, Brewsters, N. Y., railway mail service clerk, broken ankle; Thomas McGovern, plasterer's helper, Brooklyn N. Y., broken back; John Murphy, plasterer's helper, Brooklyn, N. Y., broken ankle; Joseph Luffler, 60 years old, elevator conductor, left arm broken.

Luffler had started the elevator from the ground floor with the five men and seven bags of cement upon it. When the mezzanine floor was reached the elevator almost came to a standstill. In a moment or two it shot up again until it had nearly reached the third floor, when there was a snap, and the elevator dropped to the engine room, which is 20 feet below the level of the street. Then the heavy steel cables began to unwind and the immense weight of the cables fell with a crash on the detenseless heads of the men imprisoned in the elevator, all of whom were more or less injured by the force of the fall. The accident was due to overloading.

The age of Mr. Cox and the severity of his injury makes his recovery doubt ful. Laborer McGovern is likely to die

POLICE QUESTION CONSIDERED

Abundant and Interesting Discussion, With Motion After Motion Lost-Poor Director Appointed-What Council Did. All the News.

Council opened last night with a discussion as to whether Mayor Jones or the acting mayor should report the collection of $44.30, and it was decided to take the latter. The water works reported a balance of $1,835,88. Paving assessments were given to the solicitor for collection.

A petition asking that culverts from Fifteenth street to the river be cleaned, precipitated a long discussion. Mr. Johnson believed the run should be drained and the people who fill it with filth punished. The matter went to a committee with power to act. An ordinance providing for the extermination of stray dogs, unless claimed by their owners within three days, was passed.

The police ordinance as discussed provided for officers at $45 a month, and was amended by Mr. Minor so that the marshal became the chief. Mr. Goetz thought the marshal already had two other places, and Mr. Armstrong believed that if the mayor was made chief he should have a salary of $50 a month. An effort to suspend the rules was lost, as was a motion that the matter be deferred for a month while council talked it over with Marshal Warren. Finally Mr. Beacom's motion that the ordinance be placed on its first reading,

On behalf of 500 voters and taxpayers Reverend McKee presented a petition asking that the sale of intoxicating liquors be submitted to a vote. He was followed by Reverend Stevenson, who pointed out the folly of turning down 500 good citizens, and the right of such a request. Mr. Armstrong favored the vote, and Mr. Bower pointed out that the cost would be $100, and there was danger of losing part of the revenue. This would necessitate a change in order that funds be secured in some other way. payers in town. The petitions were received and had been badly deceived in council.

reanuts In Europe.

Peanuts grow in large quantities on the northwest coast of Africa, but are known there as ground nuts. They are dug up by the natives and bartered with the European traders for merchandise, tobacco, etc., at many places on the Gambia river and afterward shipped in steamer loads to European ports, principally to Marseilles. The nuts are not roasted for retail sale, as in this country, but crushed and a fine oil extracted, which is valuable commercially. -New York Sun.

Feb. 21, 1866, General Benjamin F. Butler presented to congress the first genuine American flag, made of American materials by American labor, ever

NEW YORK, June 8 .- By the of a freight elevator in the Mail street side of the postoffice six men were more or less seriously hurt. Four were postal employes and the other two men were engaged by the contractor who has charge of the alterations now going on in the federal building.

The injured are: James A. Cox, 70 years old, examiner in the sea service of the postoffice department, Middletown, N. Y., internal injuries; George W. Daley, railway mail service clerk, Easton, Pa., leg broken; Frank Birdsall, Brewsters, N. Y., railway mail service clerk, broken ankle; Thomas McGovern, plasterer's helper, Brooklyn N. Y., broken back; John Murphy, plasterer's helper, Brooklyn, N. Y., broken ankle; Joseph Luffler, 60 years old, elevator conductor, left arm broken. Luffler had started the elevator from the ground floor with the five men and seven bags of cement upon it. When the mezzanine floor was reached the elevator almost came to a standstill. In a moment or two it shot up again until it had nearly reached the third floor, when there was a snap, and the elevator dropped to the engine room, which is 20 feet below the level of the street. Then the heavy steel cables began to unwind and the immense weight of the cables fell with a crash on the detenseless heads of the men imprisoned in the elevator, all of whom were more or less injured by the force of the fall. The accident was due to overloading. The age of Mr. Cox and the severity of his injury makes his recovery doubt ful. Laborer McGovern is likely to die from the injury to his spine.

ONE GOOD RESULT.

The popular agitation arising from the Urbana tragedy promises to have one good result in that the crime for which Mitchell died will, in every extreme instance, be made punishable by legal death. While it is expected that some sentimentalists will argue against a penalty so severe, the trend of public opinion is now so strong that it will not have been forgotten when next the legislature meets. If the fiends who have disgraced Ohio with this crime knew to a certainty that conviction meant death they would think twice before yielding to their brutish instincts. The law is as much to prevent crime as it is to punish it, and the enactment of a statute providing for the speedy trial, and, after conviction, the early death of the culprit will do much toward preventing affairs such as they had in Urbana. The penalty should fit the crime rather than gauge the crime according to the penalty.

THE INNUIT RACE.

A Peculiar People Who Live on the Coast

Line of Alaska Territory.

The Innuit race of people, commonly the and also corruptly called Eskimos, occupy almost the entire coast line of Alaska, with the numerous outlying islands from the boundary line westward along the arctic coast to Bering strait; thence southward to the Alaskan peninsula, over the peninsula and the Aleutian islands, and eastward and southward along the coast to Mount St. Elias, with the exception of a comparatively small territory at Cook's inlet, and also at the mouth of Copper river, at which points the Tinneh tribe of Indians from the interior have forced their way to the coast. Living constantly on or near the sea, they from infancy have not the slightest fear of the dangers of the deep, and at an early age become bold navigators and skilled fishermen and sea

The word "innuit" in their native tongue signifies people, and as such is used by them to designate those of their own race as our people. "Eskimo" is a word of reproach and has been given them by their neighbors, the term meaning "raw fish eaters." The Innuits of Alaska are physically much superior to those inhabiting the eastern side of the continent, in Greenland and Labrador. They are all of the same race and speak a common language through each locality, and often each village from the Atlantic to the Pacific will possess a dialect distinctively its own. Those of our territory are tall and muscular, not a few of them being 6 feet in height. They have small, black eyes, high cheek bones, large mouths, thick lips, coarse brown hair and fresh, yellow complexions. In many instances men will be seen with a full beard and mustache, and in some particular families their manly beauty is further enhanced by wearing a labret below each corner of the mouth in a hole cut through the lower lip for the purpose. They are a good natured people, always smiling when spoken to, and are fond of dancing, running, jumping and all athletic sports.—Alaska News.

OSTRICH HUNTING.

Profitable Sport That Is Making the African Birds Scarce.

An ostrich chase is very attractive sport, or rather the sale of booty is so great as to attract hunters. The Arabs give themselves to it with a real passion. Mounted on their fine little horses they try as much as possible to fatigue the ostrich, for as it is 8 feet high and has very strong legs it possesses a quickness of movement which the best horse cannot attain. It has great endurance. Overtaken by the hunter, it seeks to denight, uttering a plaintive cry. In fact, the ostrich is deprived of the sower of flight by reason of its great size. The muscular force with which nature has endowed it is not equal to lifting such a weight. Its peculiar organization has made it the courier of the desert, where it is able to quickly traverse the almost

The Arab knows very well that it is the habit of the ostrich to make great detours about its nest in a circle. He chases it, then, without ceasing until it is almost there, when, worn out, it succumbs, concealing its head in the sand in order not to see its enemy, or instinctively hoping to escape a danger which it cannot see any more. This chase requires eight or ten hours, but it offers large rewards. The plumes are worth a considerable sum, the skin makes good leather, and the Arabs are very fond of the flesh. Besides, in spite of the fact that it reproduces its species rapidly, the estrich is all the time becoming rarer, and it is hunted for export and domestication in other countries. It is one of Africa's great resources and may become a new source of prosperity to Algerians if they are willing to make the effort. Robber Gulls of the Pacific.

"Out on the Pacific coast a great dea of amusement is furnished to people of an observant disposition," said L. C. Gardner of Grays Harbor, Wash., "by a walk along the seashore. For instance, there is the robber gull, one of the most graceful of birds, which always follows the pelican. The latter is an expert at catching fish, which it sees from a great height, diving with the swiftness of a bullet and seldom missing its prey. But after getting the fish in its huge beak with the pendent sack it is unable to handle it readily and always throws it in the air, catching it in its pouch, which answers the same purpose as a soldier's haversack. That is the gull's opportunity. The instant the fish leaves the beak of the big bird the robber swoops down with the swiftness of the wind, and before the fish reaches the distended jaws of the pelican it is snapped up, and the pelican is left far behind, looking foolish. Pursuit is useless, for the pelican is a heavy flier, while the gull is one of the swiftest of the feathered race."-Denver Republican.

Unless there is some radical error in the press reports, the world need not be surprised if the president drops a little hot shot into Spain and Weyler very soon.

THE senate shows signs of lagging in spite of repeated promises to speedily enact the tariff law. However, Mr. Aldrich says the vote will be taken June 21, and Mr. Aldrich knows.

THE Cuban situation, so far as this country is concerned, cannot be considered grave. ONE GOOD RESULT.

The popular agitation arising from the Urbana tragedy promises to have one good result in that the crime for Christian Endeavorers of the Presbytewhich Mitchell died will, in every extreme instance, be made punishable by legal death. While it is expected that Ferry were also there. About 175 ticksome sentimentalists will argue against a penalty so severe, the trend of public opinion is now so strong that it will not have been forgotten when next the legislature meets. If the fiends who have disgraced Ohio with this crime knew to a certainty that conviction meant death they would think twice before yielding to their brutish instincts. The law is as much to prevent crime as it is to punish it, and the enactment of a statute providing for the speedy trial, and, after conviction, the early death of the culprit will do much toward preventing affairs such as they had in Urbana. The penalty should fit the crime rather than gauge the crime according to the penalty.

To Save Barges From the Load of Water Which Poured Into Them For Hours. One Man Knocked Down by Lightning. Several Places Struck.

The rain of vesterday afternoon and evening was the hardest that has visited this section in June for some time. Any amount of damage was done and several people were struck by lightning, while washouts along the Cleveland & Pittsburg road delayed all the evening trains.

The store of J. C. Cunningham in Chester was struck by lightning, and a large stable in the rear of the store was also damaged. Mr. Cunningham was stunned by the shock, but was not seriously injured. All roads were rendered almost impassable by small streams overflowing their banks. The road to Hookstown was impassable during the afternoon.

THE INNUIT RACE.

A Peculiar People Who Live on the Coast Line of Alaska Territory.

The Innuit race of people, commonly the and also corruptly called Eskimos, occupy almost the entire coast line of Alaska, with the numerous outlying islands from the boundary line westward along the arctic coast to Bering strait; thence southward to the Alaskan peninsula, over the peninsula and the Aleutian islands, and eastward and southward along the coast to Mount St. Elias, with the exception of a comparatively small territory at Cook's inlet, and also at the mouth of Copper river, at which points the Tinneh tribe of Indians from the interior have forced their way to the coast. Living constantly on or near the sea, they from infancy have not the slightest fear of the dangers of the deep, and at an early age become bold navigators and skilled fishermen and sea

The word "innuit" in their native tongue signifies people, and as such is used by them to designate those of their own race as our people. "Eskimo" is a word of reproach and has been given them by their neighbors, the term meaning "raw fish eaters." The Innuits of Alaska are physically much superior to those inhabiting the eastern side of the continent, in Greenland and Labrador. They are all of the same race and speak a common language through each locality, and often each village from the Atlantic to the Pacific will possess a dialect distinctively its own. Those of our territory are talf and muscular, not a few of them being 6 feet in height. They have small, black eyes, high cheek bones, large mouths, thick lips, coarse brown hair and fresh, yellow complexions. In many instances men will be seen with a full beard and mustache, and in some particular families their manly beauty is further enhanced by wearing a labret below each corner of the mouth in a hole cut through the lower lip for the purpose. They are a good natured people, always smiling when spoken to, and are fond of dancing, running, jumping and all athletic sports.—Alaska News.

The Arab knows very well that it is the habit of the ostrich to make great detours about its nest in a circle. Olnhausen Wants Bills Made Plain.

MYSTERY IS TOLERATED

Were Not Up to the Standard.

Members Olnhausen and Stewart were present last eveninng when claims committee convened, and President The sick horse in the country was sold Peach was an interested spectator.

Wilbur Snediker and Charles McKeehan, representatives of the light company, were also present, and as they wished to go they were permitted to explain their business.

"In taking $15.18 from our bill last month we think you did us an injustice." said Mr. Snediker. "You deducted for a whole night outage in the eastern circuit when the lights were out not more than a third of the night. In the western circuit the lights were out nearly all night and according to our figures this came to $11.50, and we sent the bill in that way, but $15.18 additional was We have a sworn taken off. statement from our trimmer as to the number of lights out. When a policeman goes around he don't watch a light more than five minutes, and he is not in position to state if it was out all night. The only fair way to do it is to accept the statement of the trimmer, who can tell whether the light burned all night by the condition of the carbon."

Mr. Stewart said it was not the wish of claims committee or council to do the company an injustice, but in regard to the $15.18 said the only thing that could be done was to refer it to council. The police report for the month showed 27 lights out, amounting to $6.07, while the sworn statement of the trimmer said at least 10 of these burned. Mr. Snediker said it was certain no policeman on the force could tell whether the lights were out all night, and that the company very seldom got in a full bill. Mr. Stewart replied that during his three years service as a member of claims committee he had seldom seen a reduction made. The bill for this month was $566.66, and together with the $15.18, it was decided to let council set tle the matter.

The representatives retired and the committee got down to business. Mr. Olnhausen at once objected to a bill of Waggle & Grosshans for $2.50 because it was not itemized. It went over, and a bill of the Tribune for $5.40 for publishing a notice of the sewer commissioners met the same fate because the committe thought it should be charged at legal rates.

When the Union Planing mill bill for $25.97 was reached Mr. Olnhausen said: "I will not sign that. I want everything very plain. I don't like to kick, but the number of feet should be in there. I wouldn't accept a bill like that for myself and I won't do it for council. Isn't that right Stewart?"

It went over, and Commissioner Finley said he would do his duty and get the number of feet.

The Tribune bill had another inning, and Mr. Olnhausen said: "The sewer commissioners should be given city rates. Think so Stewart?"

When J. H. Porter's bill for $3.60 was reached Mr. Olnhausen said again: "Now Stewart that is not right, we ought to know where that went to." Messrs Peach and Stewart explained, and it was placed on the pay roll.

Robert Hall had a bill of $1.12 for lumber furnished the sewer commissioners to repair a stable of W. L. Thompson. It was signed by the engineer, but it was decided to let him explain at length.

The street oommissioner had a pay roll of $270.42. In it was a bill of Aaron McDonald for $31.45. This caused Mr. Stewart to ask who employed him as assistant commissioner. Mr. Olnhausen said: "I want that itemized. We don't understand it."

Mr. Finley said he was willing to swear the bill was all right, and Mr. Peach remarked that it was certified, and he didn't see what more Mr. Olnhausen wanted. This didn't suit Mr. Olnhausen, who wanted it to lay over, but Mr. Peach said he didn't think it the right thing to question the commissioner's bills in open council. Mr. Finley went to his home and returned with an itemized bill of the Work done, and it was placed on the Day roll. Mr. Stewart gathered up some you can wrestle with it a while."

Mr. Olnhausen at once wanted to know stopping place in Bremen, Germany, night.

lowing bills were placed on the roll:

ACCEPTED THE BOND.

Hurry.

The board of improvement met last evening with Members Gilbert, Stewart, George, Finley and Cuthbert present.

Clerk Hanley explained that the street railway bond for $5,000, filed by George P. Rust, had been referred back to the board by council, and the matter was entirely in the hands of the board of improvement.

Member Stewart further explained that council seemed to think the board were trying to shrink some responsibility in the matter. He said: "I still hold as I did at the last meeting that the bond is sufficient at the present time. If it is not it can be rectified in a year. The ordinance is strong enough. I move you the bond be accepted." Mr. There were no Finley seconded. remarks and the bond was approved, Gilbert, Stewart and Finley voting yes, and Messrs. George and Cuthbert, no.

Mr. George requested the clerk to read section 25 of general ordinance 508, which provides that the board of improvement should furnish an estimate to council of the cost in changing any alley or street intersections by the building of street railways, the same to be paid by the street railway causing the changes to be made. He then submitted the following report:

When a policeman goes around he don't watch a light more than five minutes, and he is not in position to state if it was out all night. The only fair way to do it is to accept the statement of the trimmer, who can tell whether the light burned all night by the condition of the carbon.'

Mr. Stewart said it was not the wish of claims committee or council to do the company an injustice, but in regard to the $15.18 said the only thing that could be done was to refer it to council. The police report for the month showed 27 lights out, amounting to $6.07, while the sworn statement of the trimmer said at least 10 of these burned. Mr. Snediker said it was certain no policeman on the force could tell whether the lights were out all night, and that the company very seldom got in a full bill. Mr. Stewart replied that during his three years service as a member of claims committee he had seldom seen a reduction made. The bill for this month was $566.66, and together with the $15.18, it was decided to let council settle the matter.

The representatives retired and the committee got down to business. Mr. Olnhausen at once objected to a bill of Waggle & Grosshans for $2.50 because it was not itemized. It went over, and a bill of the Tribune for $5.40 for publishing a notice of the sewer commissioners met the same fate because the committe thought it should be charged at legal rates.

When the Union Planing mill bill for $25.97 was reached Mr. Olnhausen said: "I will not sign that. I want everything very plain. I don't like to kick, but the number of feet should be in there. I wouldn't accept a bill like that for myself and I won't do it for council. Isn't that right Stewart?"

It went over, and Commissioner Finley said he would do his duty and get the number of feet.

The Tribune bill had another inning. and Mr. Olnhausen said: "The sewer commissioners should be given city rates. Think so Stewart?"

When J. H. Porter's bill for $3.60 was reached Mr. Olnhausen said again: "Now Stewart that is not right, we ought to know where that went to." Messrs Peach and Stewart explained, and it was placed on the pay roll. Robert Hall had a bill of $1.12 for lumber furnished the sewer commissioners to repair a stable of W. L. Thompson. It was signed by the engineer, but it was decided to let him explain at length.

The street oommissioner had a pay roll of $270.42. In it was a bill of Aaron McDonald for $31.45. This caused Mr. Stewart to ask who employed him as assistant commissioner. Mr. Olnhausen said: "I want that itemized. We don't understand it."

Mr. Finley said he was willing to swear the bill was all right, and Mr. Peach remarked that it was certified, and he didn't see what more Mr. Olnhausen wanted. This didn't suit Mr. Olnhausen, who wanted it to lay over, but Mr. Peach said he didn't think it the right thing to question the commissioner's bills in open council. Mr. Finley went to his home and returned with an itemized bill of the work done, and it was placed on the pay roll. Mr. Stewart gathered up some paper, and handing it to Mr. Olnhausen, and will leave New York on Saturday ice cream parlor, Wednesday and Thursremarked: "Here is the engineer's bill, you can wrestle with it a while."

lowing bills were placed on the roll:

ACCEPTED THE BOND.

Hurry.

The board of improvement met last George, Finley and Cuthbert present.

Clerk Hanley explained that the street railway bond for $5,000, filed by George P. Rust, had been referred back to the board by council, and the matter was Is the Charge Against William Buchentirely in the hands of the board of improvement.

Member Stewart further explained that council seemed to think the board were trying to shrink some responsibility in the matter. He said: "I still hold as I did at the last meeting that the bond is sufficient at the present time. If it is not it can be rectified in a year. The ordinance is strong enough. I move you the bond be accepted." Mr. Finley seconded. There were no remarks and the bond was approved, Gilbert, Stewart and Finley voting yes, and Messrs. George and Cuthbert, no.

Mr. George requested the clerk to read section 25 of general ordinance 508, which provides that the board of improvement should furnish an estimate to council of the cost in changing any alley or street intersections by the building of street railways, the same to be paid by the street railway causing the changes to be made. He then submitted the following report:

The Palestine School Difficulty Is Well Developed.

There is trouble in the public schools at Palestine, and it will not down. One of the leading officials is accused of favoritism, and his conduct has antagonized some of the board of education, the members thereof declaring that they will not submit to his dictatorial and uncalled for manner of procedure. The end is not yet, the indications being that the said official will eventually be compelled to seek new and fresher pastures. Our informant states that charges have been preferred against the official in question, but that no action has as yet been taken "In taking $15.18 from our bill last Board of Improvement Passed It In a in the premises. Will Buchheit was arrested last night on a charge of assault and battery preferred against him by his wife. When his wife came to the front office he followed her to find what kind of a charge she was making, and as he entered the mayor's office he was placed under arrest. He was given a preliminary hearing, this morning, and is being held for further investigation.

THE SENATORIAL FIGHT

Will Come Off Soon After the State Convention.

WAITING ON AN ENDORSEMENT

Friends of Senator Hanna Desire to Hold Off Until They Know What Will Be Done In Toledo-Welday Men Will Stand Together.

It is probable that the senatorial convention will be held soon after the big Republican gathering in Toledo, a number of leaders being desirous of knowing what will be done in the way of an endorsement for Hon. M. A. Hanna for senator before anything is done in this

Nothing definite has been done by the committee, not even to the extent of a meeting to discuss the matter, the officers manifesting no disposition to touch the matter at present. After the state convention has endorsed Mr. Hanna it is believed there can be no serious ground for opposition, even though that sentiment should develop.

A Steubenville gentleman, who knows the politics of Jefferson county very well, but would not allow his name to be used, stated to the NEWS REVIEW that the Welday men were prepared to stick together to the last. It would be hard for any candidate to draw their vote, and if the nomination was not to go to Jefferson county he was sure no other county would get it with the help of Welday men. They are not ready for combination or compromise of any kind unless their man derives some benefit from it.

The primaries in Belmont county resulted in a victory for Frank B. Archer. His opponents concede him 50 delegates out of 77.

THE LIBRARY TRUSTEES

Held a Meeting With a Committee From Trades Council.

A joint meeting of the library trustees and a committee from Trades council was held in city hall last fevening. It ordered a resolution asking the school board to retain Professor, Sanor as superintendent. It will be handed to that body at their next meeting. Several letters from the different potteries and merchants stated! they would further the object of the library picnic to be held next Tuesday by closing their places of business during the afternoon. A few bills were paid.

READY FOR WORK.

Hulings Bros. Are Pushing the Merrill

Hulings Bros., the Verona contractors, have 650 feet of piling driven in the channel of the river at Merrill dam, below Beaver, and will commence the erection of the coffer at once. This closes the channel, and boats must pass to the right or left. It is thought that the channel will be open again about November, and until that time coal fleets will experience considerable trouble in getting past the work.

Heavy rain has caused the river to rise rapidly, and the marks now show a stage of seven feet nine inches, and rising slowly.

THE NAME CAME BACK.

And For Awhile the Doctor Could Not See the Humor of It.

It is a familiar contention among psychologists that an incident once thoroughly presented to the human mind cannot be effaced from the memory. In this connection Dr. Cyrus Hamlin, the well known missionary to Turkey and the founder of Robert college, Constantinople, is reported by the Washington Star as telling a humorous story.

Among Dr. Hamlin's friends and substantial helpers was a Philadelphia gentleman, whose name could not • recalled by the doctor, who was then in dog took the witness stand. Turkey. Every incident connected with their interviews, even to the street and number of the house in which his benefactor had lived, was as plain to the doctor as if the events had occurred but yesterday, but to save his life he could not think of the gentleman's name.

As time went on this failure of memory caused him serious annoyance, and he adopted all sorts of expedients to bring back the name. He would take the letters of the alphabet one at a time and think over all the surnames he had ever heard, but to no avail. Then in his imagination he would start down the street where his friend had lived, enter the courtroom with his master.-Chithe house, go through the ceremony of cago News. introduction and repeat word for word, as nearly as he could remember it, the conversation which had taken place between them, but still he could not recall

When, after 30 years, he returned to his native land on a visit, he took the trouble to go to Philadelphia, in order to settle the question which had been puzzling him so long. He visited the house, but found only strangers, who could tell him nothing of the people who had lived there so many years before. So finally Dr. Hamlin abandoned the search, thinking that here at last was a case where something had been thoroughly presented to the human mind, and as thoroughly effaced.

One night, after he had returned permanently to this country, he attended a large dinner where were several distinguished psychologists. During the evening the conversation turned upon the subject of memory, and the well known scientific principle was discussed. This was too good an opportunity to be lost, and Dr. Hamlin proceeded to relate his experience at length, as an example of the opposite kind.

He was, of course, listened to with great interest, and as he approached the end of his story he said, with great impressiveness:

"Gentlemen, there was an incident presented to my mind more than 40 years ago, and I have not been able to hearty burst of laughter, the worthy could not draw."-Indianapolis Jour- J. M. It was some time before the truth of the matter dawned upon him.

Rock Pictures In Oregon.

W. B. Whittemore while in Alturas, Or., recently discovered some remarkable hieroglyphics about 15 miles northeast from the north end of Warner valley on the edge of what is locally known as the "desert" in Lake county. Mr. Whittemore says the hieroglyphics had thy been cut with a sharp instrument in the surface of the hard basaltic rock. They cover the face of the bluff for a distance of about three miles and consist of pictures of Indians with bows, arrows and spears, besides deer, antelope, dogs and wolves, geese, ducks, swans and reptiles of various kinds. Intermingled with these animals are characters which, of course, he could not decipher. He says that the execution of the pictures was very good, and he is satisfied that it could not have been the work of ordinary Indians. Throughout the entire distance the characters and pictures are in rows. The Indians of the vicinity have no knowledge of the meaning of the hieroglyphics or of the people who ages ago chiseled them on the surface of the rocks. From the description given, the picture writing bears a close resemblance to that found in Mexico and Central America. If this supposition is true, a careful study might reveal to the archæologist some insight into the origin or wanderings of a dead and forgotten civilization.—Cor. San Francisco Call.

It Was Lucky.

"Harry," she said reproachfully.
"Well?" he returned apprehensively, for there was that in her tone that made him fear the worst.

"It is evident from your breath," she went on, "that you have been drinking." "Well?" he said again for want of something better to say.

"When a mere girl," she explained regretfully, "I made a solemn vow that 3.50 lips that touched wine should never touch mine."

"Oh, is that all?" he said with evident relief. "If you were a little more conversant with the price of things in that line and with the details of my salary, you wouldn't hesitate a moment on account of that vow. But it's mighty lucky that you didn't include anything but wine in it."-Chicago Post

Cost of Expert Testimony.

A movement is on foot in New York to do away with or in some way regulate the taking of expert testimony in court trials. The question of expense is a serious one, this reature of the Marie Barberi trial having cost $10,000, while $62,000 was expended in the trial of Dr. Meyer, the poisoner, a year or two ago. As high as $300 a day has been charged by medical experts.

A Dog as a Witness

The dog refused to be sworn. It had a sort of Quakerlike simplicity and only affirmed, but its testimony was sufficient to decide a case in Justice Martin's courtroom.

The animal was a large, stately and intelligent Irish setter. After the human litigants had each told his tale, the "Now, who is your master?" said E. D. Loy, who had replevined the dog from Fred Enderlin, a South Side saloon keeper, on June 26.

The brute barked, sprang out of the witness chair and pawed at the feet of Loy. The animal then went through various performances at the bidding of Loy, including running across the street and back at his command. The dog would not act for the other litigant, and the court decided that he belonged to Loy. The animal was then released from the custody of Constable Roebuck. He wagged his tail at the judge and left

Size of the Congressional Library.

Founded in the year 1800 by the modest appropriation of $5,000 "for the purthase of such books as may be necessary for the use of congress at the said city Washington," this collection has grown, notwithstanding the ravages of two fires, to the present aggregate of 740,000 volumes. The acquisition of the Jefferson library in 1815, the Force Historical library in 1865, the Smithsonian library in 1867 and the Toner collection in 1882, all constituted specially important and valuable accessions to its stores. And by the enactment of the copyright law of 1870, followed by the international copyright act of 1891, this library became entitled to receive two copies of all books, periodicals and other publications claiming the protection of copyright in the United States. -A. WAITING ON AN ENDORSEMENT

Friends of Senator Hanna Desire to Hold Off Until They Know What Will Be Done In Toledo-Welday Men Will Stand Together.

It is probable that the senatorial convention will be held soon after the big Republican gathering in Toledo, a number of leaders being desirous of knowing what will be done in the way of an endorsement for Hon. M. A. Hanna for senator before anything is done in this district.

Nothing definite has been done by the committee, not even to the extent of a meeting to discuss the matter, the officers manifesting no disposition to touch the matter at present. After the state convention has endorsed Mr. Hanna it is believed there can be no serious ground for opposition, even though that sentiment should Idevelop.

A Steubenville gentleman, who knows the politics of Jefferson county very well, but would not allow his name to be used, stated to the NEWS REVIEW that the Welday men were prepared to stick together to the last. It would be hard for any candidate to draw their vote, and if the nomination was not to go to Jefferson county he was sure no other county would get it with the help of Welday men. They are not ready for combination or compromise of any kind thoroughly presented to the human unless their man derives some benefit from it.

The primaries in Belmont county resulted in a victory for Frank B. Archer. His opponents concede him 50 delegates out of 77.

THE LIBRARY TRUSTEES

Held a Meeting With a Committee From Trades Council.

A joint meeting of the library trustees and a committee from Trades council was held in city hall last fevening. It ordered a resolution asking the school board to retain Professor, Sanor as superintendent. It will be handed to that body at their next meeting. Several letters from the different potteries and merchants stated they would further the object of the library picnic to be held next Tuesday by closing their places of business during the afternoon. A few bills were paid.

READY FOR WORK.

Hulings Bros. Are Pushing the Merrill Dam.

Hulings Bros., the Verona contractors, have 650 feet of piling driven in the channel of the river at Merrill dam, below Beaver, and will commence the erection of the coffer at once. This closes the channel, and boats must pass to the right or left. It is thought that the channel will be open again about November, and until that time coal fleets will experience considerable trouble in getting past the work.

On the River.

Heavy rain has caused the river to rise rapidly, and the marks now show a stage of seven feet nine inches, and rising slowly.

Down-Keystone and Kanawha. The former received a cargo of 14 tons from this port and several passengers. It remained at the wharf over an hour, and several young people boarded the craft and indulged in dancing for awhile.

Among the passenger list of 57 were Mr. and Mrs. Befum, a newly wedded couple from Pittsburg.

Cleaning the Wharf.

Wharfmaster Lloyd put several men to work cleaning up the wharf but [the rain stopped them. No expense will be spared in putting the place in the best possible condition.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian association will meet Wednesday at 3 p. m. in parlors.

THE NAME CAME BACK.

And For Awhile the Doctor Could Not See the Humor of It.

It is a familiar contention among psychologists that an incident once thoroughly presented to the human mind cannot be effaced from the memory. In this connection Dr. Cyrus Hamlin, the well known missionary to Turkey and the founder of Robert college, Constantinople, is reported by the Washington Star as telling a humorous story.

Among Dr. Hamlin's friends and gentleman, whose name could not > recalled by the doctor, who was then in Turkey. Every incident connected with their interviews, even to the street and D. Loy, who had replevined the dog number of the house in which his benefactor had lived, was as plain to the doctor as if the events had occurred but yesterday, but to save his life he could not think of the gentleman's name.

As time went on this failure of memory caused him serious annoyance, and he adopted all sorts of expedients to bring back the name. He would take the letters of the alphabet one at a time and heard, but to no avail. Then in his from the custody of Constable Roebuck. think over all the surnames he had ever imagination he would start down the He wagged his tail at the judge and left street where his friend had lived, enter the courtroom with his master.—Chithe house, go through the ceremony of cago News. introduction and repeat word for word, as nearly as he could remember it, the conversation which had taken place between them, but still he could not recall the name.

When, after 30 years, he returned to his native land on a visit, he took the trouble to go to Philadelphia, in order to settle the question which had been puzzling him so long. He visited the house, but found only strangers, who could tell him nothing of the people who had lived there so many years before. So finally Dr. Hamlin abandoned the search, thinking that here at last was a case where something had been mind, and as thoroughly effaced.

One night, after he had returned permanently to this country, he attended a large dinner where were several distinguished psychologists. During the evening the conversation turned upon the subject of memory, and the well known scientific principle was discussed. This was too good an opportunity to be lost, and Dr. Hamlin proceeded to relate his experience at length, as an example of the opposite kind.

He was, of course, listened to with great interest, and as he approached the end of his story he said, with great impressiveness:

Rock Pictures In Oregon.

W. B. Whittemore while in Alturas, Or., recently discovered some remarkable hieroglyphics about 15 miles northeast from the north end of Warner valley on the edge of what is locally known as the "desert" in Lake county. Mr. Whittemore says the hieroglyphics had been cut with a sharp instrument in the surface of the hard basaltic rock. They cover the face of the bluff for a distance of about three miles and consist of pictures of Indians with bows, arrows and spears, besides deer, antelope, dogs and wolves, geese, ducks, swans and reptiles ery, 16@16½c; Ohio fancy creamery, 14@ of various kinds. Intermingled with these of various kinds. Intermingled with these animals are characters which, of course, he could not decipher. He says that the execution of the pictures was very good, and he is satisfied that it could not have been the work of ordinary Indians. Throughout the entire distance the characters and pictures are in rows.

The Indians of the vicinity have no knowledge of the meaning of the hieroglyphics or of the people who ages ago chiseled them on the surface of the rocks. From the description given, the picture writing bears a close resemblance to that found in Mexico and Cenbutchers', $4.25@4.40; fair, $3.90@4.10; heifers, tral America. If this supposition is true, careful study might reveal to the archæologist some insight into the origin or wanderings of a dead and forgotten civilization.—Cor. San Francisco Call.

It Was Lucky.

"Harry," she said reproachfully.

"Well?" he returned apprehensively, for there was that in her tone that made him fear the worst.

"It is evident from your breath," she went on, "that you have been drinking." "Well?" he said again for want of something better to say. "When a mere girl," she explained regretfully, "I made a solemn vow that lips that touched wine should never touch mine."

Cost of Expert Testimony.

A movement is on foot in New York to do away with or in some way regulate the taking of expert testimony in court trials. The question of expense is a serious one, this feature of the Marie Barberi trial having cost $10,000, while $62,000 was expended in the trial of Dr. Meyer, the poisoner, a year or two ago. As high as $300 a day has been charged by medical experts.

A Dog as a Witness

The dog refused to be sworn. It had a sort of Quakerlike simplicity and only affirmed, but its testimony was sufficient to decide a case in Justice Martin's courtroom.

The animal was a large, stately and substantial helpers was a Philadelphia intelligent Irish setter. After the human litigants had each told his tale, the dog took the witness stand.

'Now, who is your master?'' said E. from Fred Enderlin, a South Side saloon keeper, on June 26.

The brute barked, sprang out of the witness chair and pawed at the feet of Loy. The animal then went through various performances at the bidding of Loy, including running across the street and back at his command. The dog would not act for the other litigant, and the court decided that he belonged to Loy. The animal was then released

Size of the Congressional Library.

Founded in the year 1800 by the modest appropriation of $5,000 "for the purthase of such books as may be necessary for the use of congress at the said city of Washington," this collection has grown, notwithstanding the ravages of two fires, to the present aggregate of 740,000 volumes. The acquisition of the Jefferson library in 1815, the Force Historical library in 1865, the Smithsonian library in 1867 and the Toner collection in 1882, all constituted specially important and valuable accessions to its stores. And by the enactment of the copyright law of 1870, followed by the international copyright act of 1891, this library became entitled to receive two copies of all books, periodicals and other publications claiming the protection of copyright in the United States. -A. Township Line Will Talk About the Jail.

THE GOVERNOR'S LAST LETTER

Will Be Acted Upon, and It Is Believed Another Important Question Will Be Considered-Arrangements For the Picnic Will Be Completed.

The Township Line club will this evening hold one of the most important meetings in its history. The members will rescind the action and resolutions taken a few weeks ago, and express full confidence in Governor Bushnell.

It will be remembered that when the report of Doctor Byers, of the state board of charities, was made known the club passed a resolution asking Governor Bushnell what he meant by going above the vote of the people and ordering the rebuilding of the jail. It is known that Governor Bushnell explained the matter to the satisfaction of the committee who corresponded with him, and that the club will tonight express their confidence in his ability to handle the question. The sentiment in St. Clair and Madison townships against the jail is very strong. In connection in the mood, talk. with this the club will likely have some caustic comments on the manner in which the jail matter was handled by Mr. Byers.

The other business to be transacted is the completion of arrangements for the picnic Aug. 12. On that occasion a number of notables will be present, but the committee are not yet ready to announce their names. They say, however, that they would not be surprised to see a senator or two among them.

A NEW BRIDGE

Will Soon Carry the Street Cars Over Jethro Hollow.

Among the first improvements to be made on the street railway will be a bridge across the hollow at Jethro. It will be a modern structure built of steel, and made to answer every requirement. Manager Hoefgen has expressed a desire to have it erected without unnecessary delay, and it is likely the work will day will hasten the improvement.

LIFE IN THE DESERT.

The Arabs Are Abstemious and Enjoy the Luxury of Silence.

"In the Desert With the Bedouin" is the title of an article in The Century, written and illustrated by the English artist, R. Talbot Kelly. Mr. Kelly says in his article: Desert life induces habits of abstemiousness. Rising with the sun, a dish of cumis, or mare's milk, and a and, with the exception of an occasional cup of coffee and some very light "snack," one has no meal of any kind till after sundown. One quickly becomes accustomed to long fasting and abstinence from any form of drink, and the simple dinner at night is more keenly enjoyed in consequence. The idea of a fire in one's tent may strike some of my readers as a superfluity, but the nights are often intensely cold, and after bathing in the sun all day, with the thermometer at 95 to 100 degrees in the shade, the sudden fall of temperature to little above freezing point is very trying, and, in spite of fire, blankets and a thick ulster, I have frequently been obliged to go outside and run about in order to restore circulation to my half frozen extremities.

Pennsylvania Fox Hunting.

While there is a general impression that Americans do not go in for fox hunting as do the Englishmen, it is by all odds the most popular winter sport in Pennsylvania. There are, in the southeastern counties, as fine packs of hounds as can be shown in England, though fewer in number, and some horses that hold their own against the best of English importations over as "stiff" a country as that hunted by the famous Quorn pack, of which the Earl of Lonsdale is master. At a recent run 150 couples of hounds were out and about 200 riders. Just now there is consternation among owners of the Pennwhich has necessitated the killing of the entire pack of 25, many of them dogs imported from noted English packs. A rabid cur bit one of the hounds a few weeks ago, and this dog, after a recent run, attacked other occupants of the kennels. So all were killed as a matter of safety. There is fear that other hounds in other packs have been bitten, and that an outbreak of hydrophobia throughout the hunting district may follow. All possible precautions to prevent this disaster have been taken, and hounds which have been exposed are to be isolated for a time. - New laugh."-Strand Magazine. York Times.

Testing Coal.

An apparatus by which an engineer may test or determine the quality and adaption of the coal he receives is described in the Boston Journal of Comanalysis, but principally to show the amount of fixed carbon in the coal and the percentage of ash. As each carload is received samples are taken from 20 or more parts of the car, thoroughly mixed and quartered, each quarter being also mixed and quartered until the sample is optained. This sample is then carefully weighed, the volatile matter driven off, and the ash weighed. This estimate is important in guarding against the use of coal having an undue percentage of ash. The various coals differ in the percentage of ash which they contain, some Cumberland coals having from 12 to 14 per cent of ash, while a good New river will have as low as 3 or 4 per cent. view of the city's water front; its exten-Thus, though the coals may look alike characterizing them is 10 per cent greater in one description than the other, and, ascertaining this, an important saving in the cost of fuel may result.

That Banshee's Wail.

There is considerable discussion in the English papers about the wail of he banshee which was said to have been heard in East Kerry before the fatal bog moved. The archdeacon said that he distinctly heard the wail while in an Irish country parish administering the holy communion to a dying man.

THE FARMERS TO ACT

Township Line Will Talk About the Jail.

THE GOVERNOR'S LAST LETTER

Will Be Acted Upon, and It Is Believed Another Important Question Will Be Considered-Arrangements For the Picnic Will Be Completed.

The Township Line club will this evening hold one of the most important meetings in its history. The members will rescind the action and resolutions taken a few weeks ago, and express full confidence in Governor Bushnell.

It will be remembered that when the report of Doctor Byers, of the state board of charities, was made known the club passed a resolution asking Governor Bushnell what he meant by going above the vote of the people and ordering the rebuilding of the jail. It is known that Governor Bushnell explained the matter to the satisfaction of the committee who corresponded with him, and that the club will tonight express their confidence in his ability to handle the question. The sentiment in St. Clair and Madison townships against the jail is very strong. In connection with this the club will likely have some caustic comments on the manner in which the jail matter was handled by Mr. Byers.

The other business to be transacted is the completion of arrangements for the picnic Aug. 12. On that occasion a number of notables will be present, but the committee are not yet ready to announce their names. They say, however, that they would not be surprised to see a senator or two among them.

A NEW BRIDGE

Will Soon Carry the Street Cars Over Jethro Hollow.

Among the first improvements to be made on the street railway will be a bridge across the hollow at Jethro. It will be a modern structure built of steel, and made to answer every requirement. Manager Hoefgen has expressed a desire to have it erected without unnecessary delay, and it is likely the work will be done during the summer. The damage to the trestle by the flood of yesterday will hasten the improvement.

THE USUAL POSITION

Was Given T. H. Arbuckle In Buffalo by the Mystic Circle.

Thomas H. Arbuckle, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Owen and son returned last evening from Buffalo, where they attended the meetings of the supreme ruling of the Mystic Circle. Mr. Arbuckle was again unanimously chosen sentry, a position he has held for many years. Reports of officials showed an increase of 14 per cent in the membership of the order over last year.

TWO FUNDS OVERDRAWN.

The City Is Short of Ready Cash These Days.

The report of City Treasurer Herbert for this month shows the general fund to be overdrawn $3,372.44, while the fire fund is $598.59 on the wrong side of the ledger. The other funds show balances as follows: Street. $845.07; wharf, $68.52; police, $253.73; light, $845.84; sinking, $5,034.40; interest, $2,241: sanitary, $543.95; sewer, $664.55; bridge, $2,991.96.

BROUGHT FROM ROCHESTER.

A Helpless Old Lady Is Now With Her Daughter.

Mrs. Mary A. Purvis, of Rochester, was yesterday brought to the city by her daughter, Mrs. Mary McGee, of Railroad avenue. The old lady, who is 84 years old, was very ill, and was carried off the train by four men and afterwards removed to the home of her daughter.

Low Fare to Pittsburg.

Excursion tickets to Pittsburg for the Jr. O. U. A. M. national council will be sold via Pennsylvania lines June 12, 13 and 14. The sale of tickets will not be restricted to members of the order, but the public generally may take advantage of the reduced rates. Full information may be obtained upon application to ticket agents of the Pennsylvania lines.

Fine Furniture.

When the Elks move into their new lodge room in the Knowles block they will spare no expense in furnishing it. Mayor Gilbert and Secretary Hilbert held a short caucus yesterday, and they have several schemes in view which will make it eclipse any lodge room in the city.

Pennsylvania Fox Hunting.

While there is a general impression that Americans do not go in for fox hunting as do the Englishmen, it is by all odds the most popular winter sport in Pennsylvania. There are, in the southeastern counties, as fine packs of hounds as can be shown in England, though fewer in number, and some horses that hold their own against the best of English importations over as "stiff" a country as that hunted by the famous Quorn pack, of which the Earl of Lonsdale is master. At a recent run 150 couples of hounds were out and about 200 riders. Just now there is consternation among owners of the Pennsylvania hounds because of an outbreak of rabies in the Strafford Hunt kennels, which has necessitated the killing of the entire pack of 25, many of them dogs imported from noted English packs. A rabid cur bit one of the hounds a few weeks ago, and this dog, after a recent run, attacked other occupants of the kennels. So all were killed as a matter of safety. There is fear that other hounds in other packs have been bitten, and that an outbreak of hydrophobia throughout the hunting district may follow. All possible precautions to prevent this disaster have been taken, and hounds which have been exposed are to be isolated for a time.-New York Times.

Systems That Made Great Men.

Doubtless the early Calvinist was pretty austere in his life. Doubtless the Puritan sometimes looked as if all vivacity were washed out of his face. I confess that his Sabbath was a trifle too grim. But the age in which he appeared and the work he was commissioned of God to do demanded such stern preparation and hving. But what men that system did produce—men of heroic tickets will be good returning until June morning. They rode here yesterday, mold men of the martyr spirit genuine 17, inclusive.

Testing Coal.

An apparatus by which an engineer may test or determine the quality and adaption of the coal he receives is described in the Boston Journal of Comthe percentage of ash. As each carload is received samples are taken from 20 or more parts of the car, thoroughly mixed and quartered, each quarter being also mixed and quartered until the sample is optained. This sample is then carefully weigned, the volatile matter driven off, weighed again, and the carbon consumed, and the ash weighed. This estimate is important in guarding against the use of coal having an undue percentage of ash. The various coals differ in the percentage of ash which they contain, some Cumberland coals having from 12 to 14 per cent of ash, while a good New river will have as low as 3 or 4 per cent. Thus, though the coals may look alike to the average engineer, the heat value characterizing them is 10 per cent greater in one description than the other, and, ascertaining this, an important saving in the cost of fuel may result.

That Banshee's Wail.

There is considerable discussion in the English papers about the wail of the banshee which was said to have been heard in East Kerry before the fatal bog moved. A correspondent writes that the late Archdeacon Whately, the celebrated archbishop's son, told him of a certain instance of the banshee's cry. The archdeacon said that he distinctly heard the wail while in an Irish country parish administering the holy communion to a dying man.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York, The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in $1400,00. this respect.

A MUSICAL MONKEY.

Also a Trapeze Performer and a Fighter Domesticated In Gotham.

Albert Anderson, who lives in Harlem, has a monkey named Billy. The monkey has a room 10 by 12 which is fitted with all sorts of acrobatic apparatus likely to be enjoyed by a small but healthy tree climber. In one corner of the room is a bed, and in another are two dumbbells made fast with chains, because the monkey throws things when its temper is ruffled.

The monkey is so fond of music that when Albert Anderson, Jr., plays the harmonicon in its hearing, no matter if it be eating or rollicking, the monkey stops, and, keeping time to the music, sways back and forth from its hips, its eyes wide open and its face expressing great joy. Young Albert gave Billy a mouth organ one day, and Billy screamed with delight. The monkey put the instrument to its mouth and blew hard. A discord followed instead of the tune which the monkey plainly expected, and it thereupon held the harmonicon at arm's length to look at. It blew the instrument again and again, each time looking at it as if to make out what the trouble was. At last Billy threw the harmonicon across the room, chattering in anger. Albert played a waltz on his instrument and Billy grew less excited, but would not touch a harmonicon again.

A week later the boy got a music box for the monkey. After showing Billy how to turn the crank the box on the floor. The monkey locked at it, turned the box upside down, shook it, and then, taking hold of the handle, began to turn it slowly. The music came, and the monkey began to dance, first on one foot and then on the other, whining with delight. It is only after the removal of the box that Billy can be made to exercise on the bars and swing enough to keep in health. Billy does not weigh more than two pounds, but every grain of those two pounds is full of grit when it comes to a fight. Sam, the house cat, a big gray brute, scarred in street fights with wandering tramp cats, got into Billy's room one day, and the monkey's lips curled. The cat looked up at the monkey, which was on a trapeze bar, and licked its chops. Billy apparently knew what that meant and dropped down part way to the floor. The cat jumped, but Billy did the giant swing, and the cat missed. Before the cat had got to the floor again Billy was on it, and in two minutes the cat was leaping over bars and swings, yowling with pain. Sam never visited Billy again. - New York Sun.

Puppy Dog Dinners.

Chow dog, in the way of Chinese diet, is so great a delicacy that to leave it out of an official dinner in China erally, and the dancer gives us-well, would be as great a crime as leaving what do you suppose he gives? Not a out whitebait or asparagus in May on Wellsville and the injured member similar occasions in this country. At Canton rows of dogs, skinned, dressed and ready for cooking, are hung up in lines on the stalls in the market place. The poor chow, when thus he contributes to the delicacies of the heathen Chinee's table, must not have outgrown the tender stage of puppydom. When he is 2 months old and his little carcass weighs two pounds, he is at his best, and once he has managed to escape his doom till he is 6 months old he has a chance of living to a patriarchal age, for after that time his "flavor" is not, from the epicurean point of view, what it ought

From the non-Celestial point of view the chow pup is far too amusing and handsome a little customer to be sacrificed on the same altar on which are Reverend Salmon and wife left this laid shark fins, duck tongues and swallow nests. The baby chow in appearance is like a tiny bear cub. The lower 10,-000 of China-or rather the lower 10,-000,000—who cannot afford a dinner of chow, philosophically eat rats instead, deeming them a very passable and palatable substitute for the coveted puppy dog. - San Francisco Call.

Faithful to His Captain.

That was a loyal if not very gentle answer once made by a private soldier to Frederick the Great of Prussia, as the story is told in Harper's Round Ta-

During a campaign in Silesia the king made it his habit to stroll through his camp in disguise at night, to come into closer relations with his soldiers. One night he was stopped by a sentry, but, giving the proper password, was permitted to proceed. Instead of doing so, however, he endeavored to tempt the sentry into accepting a cigar, saying that a smoke would solace his long watch.

"It is against the rules," said the soldier.

"But you have my permission," said Frederick.

"Your permission!" cried the soldier.

"And who are you?"

"I am the king." "The king be hanged!" said the incorruptible sentry. "What would my captain say?"

FAIRIES OF THE FOG.

SCOTCH PIPERS AND DANCERS IN THE STREETS OF LONDON.

They Appear Only on Dreary Days, When They Have a Monopoly of Sidewalk Entertaining, and Usually Manage to Bag All the Pennies Within Reach.

Out of the thick fog that hangs over the square comes the Scottish piper, and with him the Scottish dancer, both clad in full Scottish regalia. Not since our last foggy day had I seen them. So far as I know they never appear in clear weather. Their friend and ally, the fog, drives away the thunderous piano organs which curse London, leaving to them a clear field. They come out of it playing merrily; they disappear into it playing merrily, but not until they have tarried long enough to charm away our pennies.

Unbearable as the bagpipe music is to any save the ears of the faithful, it has an indescribable charm in a London fog or in a Scotch mist. It rouses you out of the dull, sticky phlegm that the soot laden fog imposes on you. It brings you to the window of your apartment to wait impatiently until the gay, swaggering figures appear from behind the yellow curtains like living pictures at a

The dancer carries two rusty swords, the only thing about him that is not bright and fresh. He lays them down on the pavement. Meanwhile the piper marches on straight ahead, swaggering and blowing, as if he were piper to the whole Scottish people. So forcefully does he march that we fear he is going to pass us by for the wealthy householders in the next street.

Then suddenly he performs a half circle, still playing and now marching with finicky steps, which show off his great white spats strikingly in the dim light. At that instant the dancer looks up at on the part of our canny, kilted friends, it only re-enforces our admiration, and jingle, jingle, jingle, go our pennies-Americans' Frenchmen's, Englishmen's, landladies', servants' pennies! A harvest of pennies, reaped by canny fingers and put in an extensive granary somewhere in the most picturesque of all national garbs. Still the fingers go up to the feathered cap for a few more pen nies; still the piper plays for a few more pennies-which are forthcoming. It is kept up until the people in the windows set their faces hard against any further payment until goods are delivered.

Then the player takes up his position on the sidewalk opposite the side of the street which has contributed most libhighland fling, of course. No Scot in a kilt would be guilty of that any more than a Scot in a kilt would mention Bobby Burns at the banquet of a Scottish society.

But nowhere else is the highland fling and the bagpipe quite so attractive as on a London pavement when the fog is thick and one must work by lamplight at midday. The gayly clad piper who summons the greatest of Scottish bards and his guests to dinner, and after they are seated marches solemnly around the table splitting the ears of these same guests, has not one-half the poetry of the piper of the fog. I have heard tell how the finest of Scottish dancers dance around fires in the open to amuse the queen when she is at Balmoral. She is welcome to them. Though the piper be a royal gamekeeper and the dancer a royal gillie, I rest content with my Scots who march out of the fog and back into it after they have emptied my pockets of pennies.

Another collection is taken before we may enjoy the sword dance, which is quite the perfection of the dancing art as the Scotch know it. If that does not get the last of your pennies, the farewell collection will. All pennies, all collections, disappear somewhere in that dancer's kilt, though that dancer's kilt grows no larger. How he carries them —an English penny is as large as a silver dollar-is a question, for after a few collections the brawniest of hairy legged highlanders could not dance under the weight of his wealth. But I have seen the dancer now and then take a handful of something out of his kilt and put it in a pouch under the piper's pipe. Often not a penny is left in the block After the messenger boy, who, being in a hurry, has reclined on a stoop for a little rest and recreation, has parted with his last ha'pence the dancer picks up his rusty swords, the piper strikes up a tune and they march away into the fog. In one foggy day they must earn enough to keep them in Scotch "whusky" until another foggy day NEWS REVIEW. comes. If it is possible for such a wicked thing as a London fog to have fairies, the piper and the dancer are they .-London Cor. New York Press.

Wolseley's Close Call.

On one occasion Lord Wolseley's life was saved by Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, known as Count Gleichen. It was in the Crimea, when young Wolseley, badly wounded, was passed by the surgeon as dead. Undisturbed by the surgeon's remarks, Prince Victor tried to extract a jagged piece of stone which was sticking in the wound, and the prince succeeded in restering Wolseley, for, after a little brandy had been poured down his throat and more asseverations from the surgeon that he was dead, he sat up and exclaimed, "No more dead than you are, you fool!"-Liverpool Mercury.

Albert Anderson, who lives in Harlem, has a monkey named Billy. The monkey has a room 10 by 12 which is fitted with all sorts of acrobatic apparatus likely to be enjoyed by a small but healthy tree climber. In one corner of the room is a bed, and in another are two dumbbells made fast with chains, because the monkey throws things when its temper is ruffled.

The monkey is so fond of music that when Albert Anderson, Jr., plays the harmonicon in its hearing, no matter if it be eating or rollicking, the monkey stops, and, keeping time to the music, sways back and forth from its hips, its eyes wide open and its face expressing great joy. Young Albert gave Billy a mouth organ one day, and Billy screamed with delight. The monkey put the instrument to its mouth and blew hard. A discord followed instead of the tune which the monkey plainly expected, and it thereupon held the harmonicon at arm's length to look at. It blew the instrument again and again, each time looking at it as if to make out what the trouble was. At last Billy threw the harmonicon across the room, chattering in anger. Albert played a waltz on his instrument and Billy grew less excited, but would not touch a harmonicon again.

A week later the boy got a music box for the monkey. After showing Billy how to turn the crank the box on the floor. The monkey locked at it, turned the box upside down, shook it, and then, taking hold of the handle, began to turn it slowly. The music came, and the monkey began to dance, first on one foot and then on the other. whining with delight. It is only after the removal of the box that Billy can The well on the Johnson farm near be made to exercise on the bars and Billy does not weigh more than two pounds, but every grain of those two pounds is full of grit when it comes to a fight. Sam, the house cat, a big gray was buried in Spring Grove cemetery brute, scarred in street fights with wandering tramp cats, got into Billy's room one day, and the monkey's lips curled. The cat looked up at the monkey, which was on a trapeze bar, and licked its chops. Billy apparently knew what that meant and dropped down part way to the floor. The cat jumped, but Billy did the giant swing, and the cat missed. Before the cat had got to the floor again Billy was on it, and in two minutes the cat was leaping over bars and swings, yowling with pain. Sam never visited Billy again. - New York Sun.

Puppy Dog Dinners.

Chow dog, in the way of Chinese diet, is so great a delicacy that to leave it out of an official dinner in China would be as great a crime as leaving similar occasions in this country. At Canton rows of dogs, skinned, dressed and ready for cooking, are hung up in lines on the stalls in the market place. The poor chow, when thus he contributes to the delicacies of the heathen Chinee's table, must not have outgrown the tender stage of puppydom. When he is 2 months old and his little carcass weighs two pounds, he is at his best, and once he has managed to escape his doom till he is 6 months old he has a chance of living to a patriarchal age, for after that time his "flavor" is not, from the epicurean point of view, what it ought

From the non-Celestial point of view the chow pup is far too amusing and handsome a little customer to be sacrificed on the same altar on which are laid shark fins, duck tongues and swallow nests. The baby chow in appearance is like a tiny bear cub. The lower 10,-000 of China-or rather the lower 10,-000,000—who cannot afford a dinner of chow, philosophically eat rats instead, deeming them a very passable and palatable substitute for the coveted puppy dog.—San Francisco Call.

Faithful to His Captain.

That was a loyal if not very gentle answer once made by a private soldier to Frederick the Great of Prussia, as the story is told in Harper's Round Ta-

During a campaign in Silesia the king made it his habit to stroll through his camp in disguise at night, to come into closer relations with his soldiers. One night he was stopped by a sentry, but, giving the proper password, was permitted to proceed. Instead of doing so, however, he endeavored to tempt the sentry into accepting a cigar, saying that a smoke would solace his long watch.

"It is against the rules," said the soldier.

"But you have my permission," said Frederick.

"Your permission!" cried the soldier. "And who are you?"

"I am the king." "The king be hanged!" said the in-"What would my corruptible sentry. captain say?"

FAIRIES OF THE FOG.

SCOTCH PIPERS AND DANCERS IN THE STREETS OF LONDON.

They Appear Only on Dreary Days, When They Have a Monopoly of Sidewalk Entertaining, and Usually Manage to Bag All the Pennies Within Reach.

Out of the thick fog that hangs over the square comes the Scottish piper, and with him the Scottish dancer, both clad in full Scottish regalia. Not since our last foggy day had I seen them. So far as I know they never appear in clear weather. Their friend and ally, the fog, drives away the thunderous piano organs which curse London, leaving to them a clear field. They come out of it playing merrily; they disappear into it playing merrily, but not until they have tarried long enough to charm away our pennies.

Unbearable as the bagpipe music is to any save the ears of the faithful, it has an indescribable charm in a London fog or in a Scotch mist. It rouses you out of the dull, sticky phlegm that the soot laden fog imposes on you. It brings you to the window of your apartment to wait impatiently until the gay, swaggering figures appear from behind the yellow curtains like living pictures at a music hall.

The dancer carries two rusty swords, the only thing about him that is not bright and fresh. He lays them down on the pavement. Meanwhile the piper marches on straight ahead, swaggering and blowing, as if he were piper to the whole Scottish people. So forcefully does he march that we fear he is going to pass us by for the wealthy householders in the next street.

Then suddenly he performs a half circle, still playing and now marching with finicky steps, which show off his great white spats strikingly in the dim light. At that instant the dancer looks up at the windows, bows and smiles and craves our wealth. If we are conscious of a preconcerted theatrical movement on the part of our canny, kilted friends, it only re-enforces our admiration, and jingle, jingle, jingle, go our pennies-Americans' Frenchmen's, Englishmen's, landladies', servants' pennies! A harvest of pennies, reaped by canny fingers and put in an extensive granary somewhere in the most picturesque of all national garbs. Still the fingers go up to the feathered cap for a few more pen nies; still the piper plays for a few more pennies—which are forthcoming. It is kept up until the people in the windows set their faces hard against any further payment until goods are delivered.

Then the player takes up his position on the sidewalk opposite the side of the street which has contributed most liberally, and the dancer gives us-well, what do you suppose he gives? Not a highland fling, of course. No Scot in a kilt would be guilty of that any more than a Scot in a kilt would mention Bobby Burns at the banquet of a Scottish society. But nowhere else is the highland fling and the bagpipe quite so attractive as on a London pavement when the fog is thick and one must work by lamplight at midday. The gayly clad piper who summons the greatest of Scottish bards and his guests to dinner, and after they are seated marches solemnly around the table splitting the ears of these same guests, has not one-half the poetry of the piper of the fog. I have heard tell how the finest of Scottish dancers dance around fires in the open to amuse the queen when she is at Balmoral. She is welcome to them. Though the piper be a royal gamekeeper and the dancer a royal gillie, I rest content with my BOBBS REMEDY CO., PROPRIETORS, CHICAGO Scots who march out of the fog and back into it after they have emptied my pockets of pennies.

Another collection is taken before we may enjoy the sword dance, which is quite the perfection of the dancing art as the Scotch know it. If that does not get the last of your pennies, the farewell collection will. All pennies, all collections, disappear somewhere in that dancer's kilt, though that dancer's kilt grows no larger. How he carries them -an English penny is as large as a silver dollar-is a question, for after a few collections the brawniest of hairy legged highlanders could not dance under the weight of his wealth. But I have seen the dancer now and then take a handful of something out of his kilt and put it in a pouch under the piper's pipe. Often not a penny is left in the block. After the messenger boy, who, being in a hurry, has reclined on a stoop for a little rest and recreation, has parted with his last ha'pence the dancer picks up his rusty swords, the piper strikes up a tune and they march away into the fog. In one foggy day they must earn enough to keep them in Scotch "whusky" until another foggy day comes. If it is possible for such a wicked thing as a London fog to have fairies, the piper and the dancer are they .-London Cor. New York Press.

Wolseley's Close Call.

On one occasion Lord Wolseley's life was saved by Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, known as Count Gleichen. It was in the Crimca, when young Wolseley, badly wounded, was passed by the surgeon as dead. Undisturbed by the surgeon's remarks, Prince Victor tried to extract a jagged piece of stone which was sticking in the wound, and the prince succeeded in restoring Wolseley, for, after a little brandy had been poured down his throat and more asseverations from the surgeon that he was dead, he sat up and exclaimed, "No more dead than you are, you fool!"-Liverpool Mercury.
